Where Tornado Killed 17 in Supermarket

Second Tornado Pounds Missouri

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tornadoes struck a second death blow at Missouri Tuesday in as many days by claiming 14 more lives for a toll of 51 and 270 injured.

Small towns in southern and eastern Missouri were hit by tornadoes even as workmen still dug in the rubble of Kansas City suburbs where less than 24 hours before a tornado claimed 37 lives and injured 200 persons.

Six persons were killed in a twister which leveled Fremont, a town of 207 which only 10 days ago was hit by a flash flood. One man was killed at nearby Van Buren and a hundred miles to the northeast seven more persons perished in and around Desloge, 60 miles south of St. Louis.

Some 70 persons were left injured in the wake of the deadly black funnels. Hundreds were homeless.

The rapid-fire chain of tornadoes, spawned by the same sultry weather disturbances that gave birth to the year's deadliest tornado in Kansas City's outskirts at sundown Monday, struck the most vicious blow at Fremont.

THERE A TWISTER sheared the second floor from a two - story brick school and then roared on into town.

"It sounded like a jet plane as it came in from the west," Alvin Bell, one of the survivors, related. He credited a tornado alert four hours earlier with saving at least 100 persons who took cover in storm cellars.

Thomas Hood and his son-in-law Bill Harris, barely missed the twister at Fremont on their way home from an Arkansas fishing trip. They joined in the rescue work, unaware Hood's own home had been destroyed in another twister.

"When we reached Fremont it looked like a ghost town," Hood said. "People were walking around dazed. The town was so badly destroyed there was no one to take charge."

French Seeking New Premier

Mollet Steps Down After Losing Vote

PARIS (AP)—President Rene Coty today began the recurrent, wearisome task of looking for a new French premier. The National Assembly Tuesday night rejected Guy Mollet's austerity program to finance the Algerian campaign, and the Socialist premier promptly resigned.

Another long period of political instability appeared in prospect, with the likelihood that the government eventually would fall to another of the uneasy center coalitions which has ruled France most of the time since World War II. In 11 years, France has had 22 governments.

The new political crisis threatened to cancel or at least postpone Coty's official visit to the United States. He is due in New York June 3.

Coty, however, told National Assembly President Andre Le Troquer he was determined to go ahead with his trip to "prove the faithfulness of French friendship" for the United States. The president canceled his sailing on the Ile de France next Monday and planned instead to fly to America June 2.

* * *

IT WAS THOUGHT either might win the support of both Mollet's Socialists and the conservative Independent Republicans, whose opposition caused the defeat of Mollet's government. Because the Assembly membership is divided among so many factions, any Cabinet needs the support of both parties to command a majority.

Normally Coty would call on the Independent Republican leader, former Premier Antoine Pinay, to form a new Cabinet because his party brought down Mollet's government. But after what happened Tuesday, Pinay's chances of getting Socialist backing were virtually nonexistent.

The Assembly voted 250-213 Tuesday to reject Mollet's proposals for new taxes and cuts in the non - military budget to provide more than $1 billion for the French campaign against the Algerian nationalist rebels.

Skidding Jeep Upsets; Youth Cut, Bruised

A Washington C. H. youth narrowly escaped possibly fatal injuries early Wednesday when the canvas-topped jeep he was driving skidded off rain-slick Wilson curve on the CCC Highway 3½ miles east of Washington C. H.

Escaping with cuts and bruises when his jeep was demolished was Roger Schorr, 16, of 536 Clinton Ave., who told Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson that the vehicle "may have rolled over several times."

A passing truck driver said he did not see how anyone could have survived.

Framework supporting the canvas top was crushed. Schorr was treated at Memorial Hospital for bruises on his back and lacerations of the face.

He told Deputy Thompson the jeep slid off the slippery curve as he was driving toward Washington C. H. Rolling over at least once, the jeep landed on all four wheels about 50 feet from where it left the road, Thompson said.

A NEW RICHMOND truck driver was charged with failure to stop within assured clear distance as a result of an auto accident at the intersection of Court and North Sts. about 8 a. m. Wednesday.

Charged as a result of the mishap was James H. Crowe, operator of a beer truck, whose vehicle collided with the rear of an auto driven by Mrs. Fred Shoop, 903 Briar Ave.

Mrs. Shoop said she was going east on Court St. and had stopped for the red light when the truck collided with the rear end of her auto.

Ohio Senate Faces Dog Bill

Much Emotional Steam Generated by Measure

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Senate today tackles a real dog bill—the measure which has generated more emotional steam than any other bill in the legislative session which began Jan. 7.

It is the House-approved bill to require dog pounds to offer unclaimed and unwanted dogs for sale (at a flat $3 each) to medical research institutions in Ohio at least 24 hours before they are scheduled to be destroyed.

Anti-vivisectionists, appalled by prospects the law may require pounds to turn over strays for experimentation on living animals, have raised a hue and cry against the measure.

Representatives of humane societies, fearful that some of the money they have been bequeathed in th past might be lost to them if society - operated pounds turn over dogs for vivisection contrary to the will provisions of the benefactors, have objected more mildly, but no less earnestly.

Ohio physicians, especially in the research field, have termed the continuous flow of an adequate number of dogs a "must" in the study of human diseases.

* * *

THE DOG BILL appeared to have an excellent chance of obtaining Senate approval and Gov. C. William O'Neill has indicated he will sign the bill if it reaches his desk.

The House Tuesday pasted convincing defeats on two bills proposing to permit cities to tax autos up to $5 each and levy a 3 per cent tax on gas, electric, telephone and water bills.

Despite the plea of their sponsor, Rep. Edmund G. James (R-Noble), that he was only trying to help financially pressed cities to help themselves, the House defeated the auto tax bill 42-81 and the utility levy 43-77.

In another controversial action, the House reconsidered and passed 73-48 a much-debated bill making sweeping changes in Ohio's law covering municipal annexations.

One of the principal changes in the bill opposed by the State Assn. of Township Trustees and Clerks makes corporate land owners eligible to sign annexation petitions. Only adult resident freeholders now may sign such petitions.

The House resurrected and passed another bill—this one a bill defeated a week ago. It permits counties to condemn land from rural slum eliminations. Defeated 68-58 originally, the bill was passed Tuesday 88-33.

A constitutional amendment which would permit persons who move into Ohio less than a year before a presidential election to cast votes for the national ticket,

Demands Presist For Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Demands for big cuts in foreign aid spending persisted in Congress today despite President Eisenhower's charge that economy advocates are gambling blindly and recklessly along a road to free world "disaster."

The President stripped off the velvet gloves Tuesday night in a nationwide television-radio appeal for support of his $3,865,000,000 mutual security program.

He spoke of "those blindly striving to save the money that must be spent as the price of peace," and said he doesn't propose to "take that gamble."

A week ago Tuesday night Eisenhower made a strong pitch on television and radio for his general $71.8 billion spending budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But at a meeting with newsmen the next day he refused to take a tough line with members of his own party in Congress who disagree with him on spending and other matters. He talked again at that time of the possibility of squeezing fat from the spending program.

* * *

EISENHOWER went on the air Tuesday night after formally submitting his foreign aid program to the lawmakers during the day. In a special message he said it would be "supreme folly" for America to cripple its allies against communism "through an overweaning zeal to scrimp."

Committees of both the House and Senate arranged to start hearings today on his proposals.

But Sen. Young (R-ND) said Eisenhower still is "asking for too much money, about a billion too much." Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said a half billion dollar cut "won't hurt the program too much." Another Republican, Sen. Butler (Md) predicted a reduc-

AFL-CIO Stalls Teamster Rap

Federation Allowing Union Clean Up Self

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO today postponed indefinitely a meeting of its ethical practices committee set for Friday on charges the Teamsters Union is corruptly dominated.

The action was viewed as reflecting a recognition by the federation of a move within the union to oust Teamster Union President Dave Beck.

The ouster movement against Beck was being led by 68-year-old John F. English, newly-named as an AFL-CIO vice president.

English planned an informal strategy session with fellow members of the Teamsters Executive Board who, like him, are determined that Beck must go. Their determination grew from Senate Rackets Committee charges that Beck helped himself to vast sums of Teamsters funds.

English has been general secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters for more than a decade and a member of the union for more than a half century. He said a majority of the Teamsters board members is behind him in a plan to demand that Beck call a board session to consider Beck's status.

* * *

IF BECK REFUSES, English said, his group will simply convene a board meeting on their own and consider demanding Beck's resignation.

English was unanimously elected by AFL-CIO chiefs Tuesday as an AFL-CIO vice president and executive council member.

This put English in the AFL-CIO posts from which the Federation ousted Beck on Monday as 'guilty" of corruption charges.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, predicted Tuesday the Teamsters will "get rid of Beck" and quoted English as having told AFL-CIO leaders:

"We're going to wash our own dirty linen. You and the rest of American labor is going to be proud of us again."

Guided Missile Aircraft Plans May Be Hurt

Chief Decries Action By House Group, Hopes For Senate Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today about half of the $2½ billion cut in defense funds voted by a House committee would cut directly into the nation's guided missile and aircraft programs.

The country is going to suffer if the reduction approved by the House Appropriations Committee is allowed to stand with respect to those fields, Eisenhower told a news conference.

He also said he never will agree to a tax cut while the budget is in what he called its current precarious state of balance.

Discussing the $2½ billion defense reduction approved by the House committee, Eisenhower said about $1.3 billion of it is not a budget cut at all but a bookkeeping tactic.

He went on to say that $1.2 billion of the proposed reduction would, however, cut directly into the defense program in such fields as aircraft and guided missiles.

* * *

AT THAT POINT, Eisenhower said we are going to ave to suffer if that portion of the cut stands. He expressed hope the Senate will restore every cent of the $1.2 billion.

Eisenhower said public reaction to his television, radio and news conference efforts in behalf of his spending budget has gradually turned in favor of the administration's position. At first, he added, most people either were inclined to question the administration's spending plans or to be hostile.

Asked whether he plans more direct-to-the-people appeals, Eisenhower replied — with a smile but emphatically — that as long as he is in a fight he never rests.

Until he gets what he wants in the way of adequate funds to wage the peace and carry out

U. S. Roads Bureau Studying Route of Ohio N-S Freeway

WASHINGTON (AP)—The southern section of the proposed north-south freeway across Ohio will be located to best serve the "overall public interest," a federal highway official says.

C. E. Mannerow, acting assistant commissioner for engineering in the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, in a recent letter to Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) said, when the state submits its plan for the road, "Public Roads will analyze the information developed by the state to assure the highway location of being in the over-all public interest."

Lausche had asked that serious consideration be given to locating the new Cincinnati-to - Conneaut freeway so that it will pass near Springfield and Dayton instead of farther east.

Indiana Area Hit By Heavy Storms

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Heavy storms lashed parts of Indiana Tuesday night, causing much damage. A small tornado hit Paradise, 10 miles southeast of Evansville, sending a housewife to a hospital.

Indianapolis, Evansville, Logansport, Lafayette, Terre Haute and Seymour were among the places hit by heavy winds.

State police said the tornado at Paradise demolished the four-room frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Groeninger. Mrs. Groeninger, 18, was taken to a hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. Groeninger, 19, was treated at the scene.

Refugee Faces Long Stretch Of Problems

The Immigration Service wants to send him back to Hungary because he has two wives, both of them in America.

But "sending him back to Hungary would be like taking him out of the frying pan and placing him before the firing squad," says his attorney, Fred A. Smith.

Bajnok, 22, was one of the first Hungarians to reach Toledo after fleeing his homeland in the wake of Hungary's rebellion against the Communists last fall. He told authorities he had been with the Freedom fighters and that he thought his wife was killed in the fighting.

After arriving at Camp Kilmer, N. J., he met and married his second wife, Ethel, 36, who has been with him here. Two days later his first wife, very much alive, arrived at Camp Kilmer.

Bajnok said Tuesday he had agreed to separate from his first wife and believed no further legal action would be required.

But deportation proceedings have been started and Bajnok's attorney is trying to stop them.

'Self-Support' Laws Rapped At PTA Parley

CINCINNATI (AP) — Parent-Teacher workers were told today that "self-support" laws in some states are barring needy mothers with dependent children from aid rolls, forcing them to go to work and making "door-key kids" out of the children.

Joseph H. Reid, executive director of the Child Welfare League, New York, in a report on Aid to Dependent Children laws circulated at the convention here of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, said some states are dodging the intent of Congress with self-support laws.

"They have a fine ring to them," he said, "purporting to provide assistance to help families become self-supporting.

"Here today, in many states, under the guise of these self-support laws, women are being forced to go to work, leaving their children without adequate care."

Reid urged parent-teacher members to work for "public understanding and support of programs and services for children."

The term "door-key kid" grew up in World War II, when some working mothers gave children keys to their home, leaving them to come in off the streets when they chose.

Burns Fatal to Girl, 6

Held as Light Violator, He Lights Out!

"Say," he said, "May I get a drink of water?"

The nice - looking young man stepped out of the cage - like police office and headed for the bubbler across the room.

He hasn't been seen since!

CHANCES are he will be though, Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said Wednesday morning. Because there's a warrant for Fred Murdock, 852½ S. Front St., Columbus, arrested Tuesday night for running a red light, waiting at the Washington C. H. police station.

"We know where to find him, so he'll be back," Chief Long said of the youthful driver.

When they do find him, Chief Long said they'll be particularly interested in finding out exactly why he could offer Patrolmen Massie no license for his driving and no registration for his car.

If he can give good answers to those questions, "why then we will be ready to consider giving back the auto he left behind," the chief said.

The 1949 Chevrolet sedan which Murdock was driving when he was arrested was removed from its parking place in the alley beside the police station to a city garage.

Ohio Senate Faces Dog Bill

Much Emotional Steam Generated by Measure

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Senate today tackles a real dog bill—the measure which has generated more emotional steam than any other bill in the legislative session which began Jan. 7.

It is the House-approved bill to require dog pounds to offer unclaimed and unwanted dogs for sale (at a flat $3 each) to medical research institutions in Ohio at least 24 hours before they are scheduled to be destroyed.

Anti-vivisectionists, appalled by prospects the law may require pounds to turn over strays for experimentation on living animals, have raised a hue and cry against the measure.

Representatives of humane societies, fearful that some of the money they have been bequeathed in th past might be lost to them if society - operated pounds turn over dogs for vivisection contrary to the will provisions of the benefactors, have objected more mildly, but no less earnestly.

Ohio physicians, especially in the research field, have termed the continuous flow of an adequate number of dogs a "must" in the study of human diseases.

THE DOG BILL appeared to have an excellent chance of obtaining Senate approval and Gov. C. William O'Neill has indicated he will sign the bill if it reaches his desk.

The House Tuesday pasted convincing defeats on two bills proposing to permit cities to tax autos up to $5 each and levy a 3 per cent tax on gas, electric, telephone and water bills.

Despite the plea of their sponsor, Rep. Edmund G. James (R-Noble), that he was only trying to help financially pressed cities to help themselves, the House defeated the auto tax bill 42-81 and the utility levy 43-77.

In another controversial action, the House reconsidered and passed 73-48 a much-debated bill making sweeping changes in Ohio's law covering municipal annexations.

One of the principal changes in the bill opposed by the State Assn. of Township Trustees and Clerks makes corporate land owners eligible to sign annexation petitions. Only adult resident freeholders now may sign such petitions.

The House resurrected and passed another bill—this one a bill defeated a week ago. It permits counties to condemn land from rural slum eliminations. Defeated 68-58 originally, the bill was passed Tuesday 88-33.

A constitutional amendment which would permit persons who move into Ohio less than a year before a presidential election to cast votes for the national ticket,

Demands Presist For Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Demands for big cuts in foreign aid spending persisted in Congress today despite President Eisenhower's charge that economy advocates are gambling blindly and recklessly along a road to free world "disaster."

The President stripped off the velvet gloves Tuesday night in a nationwide television-radio appeal for support of his $3,865,000,000 mutual security program.

He spoke of "those blindly striving to save the money that must be spent as the price of peace," and said he doesn't propose to "take that gamble."

A week ago Tuesday night Eisenhower made a strong pitch on television and radio for his general $71.8 billion spending budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But at a meeting with newsmen the next day he refused to take a tough line with members of his own party in Congress who disagree with him on spending and other matters. He talked again at that time of the possibility of squeezing fat from the spending program.

EISENHOWER went on the air Tuesday night after formally submitting his foreign aid program to the lawmakers during the day. In a special message he said it would be "supreme folly" for America to cripple its allies against communism "through an overweaning zeal to scrimp."

Committees of both the House and Senate arranged to start hearings today on his proposals.

But Sen. Young (R-ND) said Eisenhower still is "asking for too much money, about a billion too much." Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said a half billion dollar cut "won't hurt the program too much." Another Republican, Sen. Butler (Md) predicted a reduc-

Railway Express Strike Continues

NEW YORK (AP)—Railway Express Agency drivers, who walked out a month ago in seven major cities, remained on strike today in a dispute over a new contract.

An agency spokesman said an embargo on shipments to and from those cities has resulted in the loss of a considerable amount of business. Items expected from the embargo include drugs, funeral supplies and animals for laboratory purposes.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the National Mediation Board moved into the dispute. It arranged a meeting later in the day between board member Francis A. O'Neill Jr., and representatives of labor and management.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Earl B. Foltz, 40, is awaiting extradition to Cambridge, Ohio, today to face charges of raping a 15-year-old girl in October, 1953. The FBI arrested Foltz in a local park Monday.

AFL-CIO Stalls Teamster Rap

Federation Allowing Union Clean Up Self

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO today postponed indefinitely a meeting of its ethical practices committee set for Friday on charges the Teamsters Union is corruptly dominated.

The action was viewed as reflecting a recognition by the federation of a move within the union to oust Teamster Union President Dave Beck.

The ouster movement against Beck was being led by 68-year-old John F. English, newly-named as an AFL-CIO vice president.

English planned an informal strategy session with fellow members of the Teamsters Executive Board who, like him, are determined that Beck must go. Their determination grew from Senate Rackets Committee charges that Beck helped himself to vast sums of Teamsters funds.

English has been general secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters for more than a decade and a member of the union for more than a half century. He said a majority of the Teamsters board members is behind him in a plan to demand that Beck call a board session to consider Beck's status.

* * *

IF BECK REFUSES, English said, his group will simply convene a board meeting on their own and consider demanding Beck's resignation.

English was unanimously elected by AFL-CIO chiefs Tuesday as an AFL-CIO vice president and executive council member.

This put English in the AFL-CIO posts from which the Federation ousted Beck on Monday as 'guilty" of corruption charges.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, predicted Tuesday the Teamsters will "get rid of Beck" and quoted English as having told AFL-CIO leaders:

"We're going to wash our own dirty linen. You and the rest of American labor is going to be proud of us again."

Guided Missile Aircraft Plans May Be Hurt

Chief Decries Action By House Group, Hopes For Senate Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today about half of the $2½ billion cut in defense funds voted by a House committee would cut directly into the nation's guided missile and aircraft programs.

The country is going to suffer if the reduction approved by the House Appropriations Committee is allowed to stand with respect to those fields, Eisenhower told a news conference.

He also said he never will agree to a tax cut while the budget is in what he called its current precarious state of balance.

Discussing the $2½ billion defense reduction approved by the House committee, Eisenhower said about $1.3 billion of it is not a budget cut at all but a bookkeeping tactic.

He went on to say that $1.2 billion of the proposed reduction would, however, cut directly into the defense program in such fields as aircraft and guided missiles.

* * *

AT THAT POINT, Eisenhower said we are going to ave to suffer if that portion of the cut stands. He expressed hope the Senate will restore every cent of the $1.2 billion.

Eisenhower said public reaction to his television, radio and news conference efforts in behalf of his spending budget has gradually turned in favor of the administration's position. At first, he added, most people either were inclined to question the administration's spending plans or to be hostile.

Asked whether he plans more direct-to-the-people appeals, Eisenhower replied — with a smile but emphatically — that as long as he is in a fight he never rests.

Until he gets what he wants in the way of adequate funds to wage the peace and carry out

WASHINGTON (AP)—The southern section of the proposed north-south freeway across Ohio will be located to best serve the "overall public interest," a federal highway official says.

C. E. Mannerow, acting assistant commissioner for engineering in the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, in a recent letter to Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) said, when the state submits its plan for the road, "Public Roads will analyze the information developed by the state to assure the highway location of being in the over-all public interest."

Lausche had asked that serious consideration be given to locating the new Cincinnati-to - Conneaut freeway so that it will pass near Springfield and Dayton instead of farther east.

Indiana Area Hit By Heavy Storms

Indianapolis, Evansville, Logansport, Lafayette, Terre Haute and Seymour were among the places hit by heavy winds.

State police said the tornado at Paradise demolished the four-room frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Groeninger. Mrs. Groeninger, 18, was taken to a hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. Groeninger, 19, was treated at the scene.

Burns Fatal to Girl, 6

Held as Light Violator, He Lights Out!

"Say," he said, "May I get a drink of water?"

The nice - looking young man stepped out of the cage - like police office and headed for the bubbler across the room.

He hasn't been seen since!

* * *

CHANCES are he will be though, Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said Wednesday morning. Because there's a warrant for Fred Murdock, 852½ S. Front St., Columbus, arrested Tuesday night for running a red light, waiting at the Washington C. H. police station.

"We know where to find him, so he'll be back," Chief Long said of the youthful driver.

When they do find him, Chief Long said they'll be particularly interested in finding out exactly why he could offer Patrolmen Massie no license for his driving and no registration for his car.

If he can give good answers to those questions, "why then we will be ready to consider giving back the auto he left behind," the chief said.

The 1949 Chevrolet sedan which Murdock was driving when he was arrested was removed from its parking place in the alley beside the police station to a city garage.

Ike's Budget Views

the rest of his program, he will never stop fighting, he added.

The President spent most of the time answering questions about the administration's $71.8 billion budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But he also dealt with these other matters:

Leadership — Eisenhower said he never has even considered asking Sen. Knowland of California, or anyone else, to resign from a position of congressional leadership because of disagreement with hi. Knowland is the GOP Senate leader.

As for differences with party leaders in Congress, Eisenhower said he personally is committed to support of the Republican party's 1956 platform.

* * *

HE ADDED with emphasis that he intends to stand by that platform.

And he said he has no intention of ever going behind the backs of Republican congressional leaders in an effort to get his program through.

However, he added, he feels he is not barred from talking to individual members of Congress along that line, so long as he notifies the leaders regarding his intentions.

Politics — Eisenhower said he always endeavors to support all Republican nominees for Congress because he feels so strongly that both the White House and the Legislative branch should be controlled by the same party.

He went on to say, however, that when it comes to who he is for enthusiastically for congressional office, and who is just for, that is another matter.

Eisenhower's remarks were in reply to a question whether he would follow his practice of the past and give blanket endorsement to all Republican candidates for Congress, regardless of their voting records.

Disarmament —Eisenhower said the United States must make every possible effort to work out a disarmament agreement with Russia.

The more that intelligent men think about the arms race, the more they realize progress toward disarmament must be made, Eisenhower added. Alluding then to talks with Russia, which have been going on in London, Eisenhower said the United States must not be picayunish and must be willing to meet the Russians half way.

But in the light of history with respect to the way the Soviets fail to keep agreements, he said, this country must also be especially careful in entering into any inspection pact.

$1,000 Bonds Set for 2 Held In Assault Case

Arraignment Slated In Municipal Court on Monday

Bail was set at $1,000 each Wednesday for two 21-year-old Fayette County men charged with criminally assaulting a 27-year-old Perry Township bride of two months early Sunday.

Held for arraignment in Municipal Court Monday are James Payton, Jr., of 52 State St., Jeffersonville, and Charles Tucker of 1027 Washington Ave.

The two, jailed on suspicion of assault a few hours after the alleged incident, appeared in Municipal Court Wednesday. No plea was entered in the absence of their attorney. Judge Max G. Dice set bond and continued the case until Monday.

* *

FORMAL CHARGES against the two men were filed by the woman's husband Tuesday night. He had filed John Doe warrants in the incident early Sunday.

The assault allegedly took place about 2 a. m. Sunday when the woman reputedly accepted an offer from the men to take her to her Perry Township home.

Instead, she claims, they drove down Creek Rd. to Rock Mills and back. The alleged assault is said to have taken place en route.

After the youths had let her out in Washington C. H., she says she went directly to where her husband was at work. The two went together and contacted Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson, who, working from her descriptions, had Tucker and Payton in jail on suspicion before 5 a. m.

At Desloge, witnesses said residents were lucky to escape with only three dead as a twister cut a path of havoc six blocks wide.

Three other persons were killed at a family reunion at a farm home 15 miles northeast of there.

O. M. McLeod, a miner of nearby Flat River who watched the tornado hit Desloge, said it sounded like "a steam engine with burned - out bearings pulling a string of freight cars."

THE TWISTERS did many strange things. At Desloge it picked up Bobby Tiefenauer's two-story frame house and turned it about before setting it down 200 yards away.

Only an hour before the storm struck, some 400 students at the Desloge High School had completed classes and were dismissed. The school was heavily damaged. Only the walls were left standing.

Mrs. Leo Nelson was home alone with her two sons, age two and six, when she heard the storm roaring down on Desloge. She huddled with her children in a closet and prayed.

Her glassed were blown from her face as the house cracked and splintered. But she and her two children were unhurt and she found her glasses under a table, unbroken.

GOP Solons Ask Morse for Apology

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans called today for a public apology from Sen. Morse (D-Ore) for saying President Eisenhower and Dave Beck are "two of the same kind of immoralists."

In an attack led by Chairman Bridges (NH) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, GOP members criticized Morse for making a comparison between Eisenhower and Teamsters Union President Beck in a recent Detroit speech.

Oil-Bearing Sand May Be Just Ahead

The Kewanee Oil Co. test well on the Edwards Hopkins farm,was down 1,679 feet at 8 a.m. Wednesday posted on the bulletin board on the grounds.

This meant that in the previous 24 hours the drill had penetrated 144 feet, compared with 104 feet the previous 24 hours.

While no information other than well depth is being given out by the company spokesmen.

* * *

INFORMATION carried in the log of the well drilled on the Washington Ice Co. grounds here 53 years ago, would indicate that the drill should strike oil-bearing sand by Wednesday night.

The baler at the Washington Ice Co. well brought up the first oil at 1,750 feet, and it was pronounced a good grade of petroleum. At 1,756 feet the Trenton sand was clearly shown and there was little salt water.

At 1,761 feet there was more sand, more oil, and salt water stood 200 feet deep in the well.

The Trenton sand extended from 1,755 feet to 1,767 feet, and the well was cased. When the well was baled 1200 feet of salt water was in it, and 25 gallons of oil was brought up with the first baler full.

The well was plugged at 1,775 feet but pumping would not remove the salt water due to poor equipment, and the well was plugged and abandoned.

But Eisenhower got GOP support, too. Sen. Ives (R-NY) pledged help in a fight for "the full amount." Sen. Purtell (R-Conn) promised: "I shall back the President." Sen. Clifford Case (R-NJ) said "we can't afford to tear down our chief bulwark" against possible Communist aggression.

In Kansas City, Former President Harry S. Truman demanded that the U.S. continue its military and economic aid programs for free nations as a deterrent to Communist aggression.

TRUMAN SPOKE at about the same time Eisenhower was giving his nationwide television and radio speech.

In his talk, Eisenhower came up with the fightingest appeal of his second term after saying anew that the cost of peace is high.

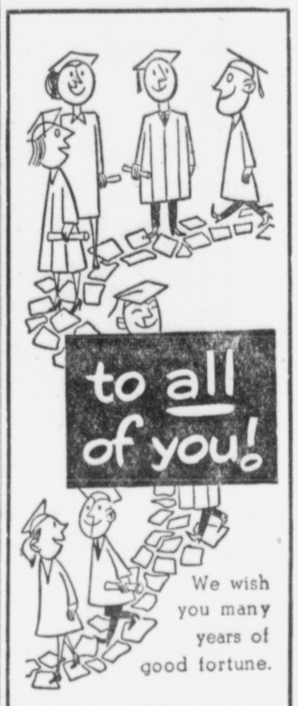

"Yet the price of war," he added, "is higher and is paid in different coin—with the lives of our youth and the devastation of our cities.

"To cripple our programs for mutual security in the false name of 'economy' can mean nothing less than a weakening of our nation.

"To try to save money at the risk of such damage is neither conservative nor constructive. It is reckless. It could mean the loss of peace. It could mean the loss of freedom. It could mean the loss of both.

"I know that you do not wish your government to take such a reckless gamble. I do not intend that your government take that gamble.'

At another point Eisenhower called the aid program "a saving shield of freedom." He added that ending or weakening the program "w; v vastly increase the risk of future war."

30 Scouts Win Advancement at Court of Honor

Jeffersonville's David Morrow Gets Top Fayette Rank

Awards and advancements in rank were given to 30 Scouts at the spring Court of Honor held Tuesday night in the American Legion Hall with Legion sponsored Troop 112 in the role of host.

Highest award to any Scout now active in Fayette County was made to David Morrow of Troop 67, Jeffersonville, by Don E. Wood, district advancement chairman.

He was advanced to Life Scout rank, which is one rank below Eagle Scout, the highest rank in Scouting. He also received the Life Scout award certificate, the highest in aquatics, and merit badges in music, life saving, camping, citizenship and wildlife management. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Morrow.

The opening court ceremonies were conducted by Troop 112, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Richard Curl. Assistant Scoutmaster Bob Woods and Explorer Scout Leader Jim Merritt. The bugler was Randy Bolton.

TEN SCOUTS of Troop 303 of Milledgeville received awards and advancements. Tenderfoot rank was conferred on Larry Conley and Joe Lane. John Paul Morgan, Roger Hodge, Billy Creamer, Glen Rankin, John Minton, Vernon Klontz and John Bartruff were advanced to Second Class Rank. Grant Morgan is Scoutmaster of Troop 303.

Six Scouts of Troop 112 were advanced to Tenderfoot rank. They were Roger Stevenson, Kenneth Arnold, John Wood, Joe Anders, Joe Burnett and Bobby Rayburn. Advanced to Second Class were Sonny Yahn, Eddie Pendegraft, Mickey Curl, George Manning, Carl Anders, Jim Merritt and Bucky Yahn. Randy Bolton was awarded a merit badge in geology. Promoted to assistant patrol leaders were Jim Merritt and George Manning. Given patrol leader bars were Randy Bolton and Sonny Yahn. Closing ceremonies of the Court of Honor also were conducted by Troop 112 with the posting of the colors and sounding of taps.

Ike's Budget Views

the rest of his program, he will never stop fighting, he added.

The President spent most of the time answering questions about the administration's $71.8 billion budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But he also dealt with these other matters:

Leadership — Eisenhower said he never has even considered asking Sen. Knowland of California, or anyone else, to resign from a position of congressional leadership because of disagreement with hi. Knowland is the GOP Senate leader.

As for differences with party leaders in Congress, Eisenhower said he personally is committed to support of the Republican party's 1956 platform.

* * *

HE ADDED with emphasis that he intends to stand by that platform.

And he said he has no intention of ever going behind the backs of Republican congressional leaders in an effort to get his program through.

However, he added, he feels he is not barred from talking to individual members of Congress along that line, so long as he notifies the leaders regarding his intentions.

Politics — Eisenhower said he always endeavors to support all Republican nominees for Congress because he feels so strongly that both the White House and the Legislative branch should be controlled by the same party.

He went on to say, however, that when it comes to who he is for enthusiastically for congressional office, and who is just for, that is another matter.

Eisenhower's remarks were in reply to a question whether he would follow his practice of the past and give blanket endorsement to all Republican candidates for Congress, regardless of their voting records.

Disarmament —Eisenhower said the United States must make every possible effort to work out a disarmament agreement with Russia.

The more that intelligent men think about the arms race, the more they realize progress toward disarmamen' must be made, Eisenhower added. Alluding then to talks with Russia, which have been going on in London, Eisenhower said the United States must not be picayunish and must be willing to meet the Russians half way.

But in the light of history with respect to the way the Soviets fail to keep agreements, he said, this country must also be especially careful in entering into any inspection pact.

The Territory of Hawaii was established June 14, 1900. It has an area of 6,423 square miles.

$1,000 Bonds Set for 2 Held In Assault Case

Arraignment Slated In Municipal Court on Monday

Bail was set at $1,000 each Wednesday for two 21-year-old Fayette County men charged with criminally assaulting a 27-year-old Perry Township bride of two months early Sunday.

Held for arraignment in Municipal Court Monday are James Payton, Jr., of 52 State St., Jeffersonville, and Charles Tucker of 1027 Washington Ave.

The two, jailed on suspicion of assault a few hours after the alleged incident, appeared in Municipal Court Wednesday. No plea was entered in the absence of their attorney. Judge Max G. Dice set bond and continued the case until Monday.

* *

FORMAL CHARGES against the two men were filed by the woman's husband Tuesday night. He had filed John Doe warrants in the incident early Sunday.

The assault allegedly took place about 2 a. m. Sunday when the woman reputedly accepted an offer from the men to take her to her Perry Township home.

Instead, she claims, they drove down Creek Rd. to Rock Mills and back. The alleged assault is said to have taken place en route.

After the youths had let her out in Washington C. H., she says she went directly to where her husband was at work. The two went together and contacted Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson, who, working from her descriptions, had Tucker and Payton in jail on suspicion before 5 a. m.

Second Tornado

At Desloge, witnesses said residents were lucky to escape with only three dead as a twister cut a path of havoc six blocks wide.

Three other persons were killed at a family reunion at a farm home 15 miles northeast of there.

O. M. McLeod, a miner of nearby Flat River who watched the tornado hit Desloge. said it sounded like ."a steam engine with burned - out bearings pulling a string of freight cars."

* * *

THE TWISTERS did many strange things. At Desloge it picked up Bobby Tiefenauer's two-story frame house and turned it about before setting it down 200 yards away.

Only an hour before the storm struck, some 400 students at the Desloge High School had completed classes and were dismissed. The school was heavily damaged. Only the walls were left standing.

Mrs. Leo Nelson was home alone with her two sons, age two and six, when she heard the storm roaring down on Desloge. She huddled with her children in a closet and prayed.

Her glassed were blown from her face as the house cracked and splintered. But she and her two children were unhurt and she found her glasses under a table, unbroken.

GOP Solons Ask Morse for Apology

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans called today for a public apology from Sen. Morse (D-Ore) for saying President Eisenhower and Dave Beck are "two of the same kind of immoralists."

In an attack led by Chairman Bridges (NH) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, GOP members criticized Morse for making a comparison between Eisenhower and Teamsters Union President Beck in a recent Detroit speech.

Oil-Bearing Sand May Be Just Ahead

The Kewanee Oil Co. test well on the Edwards Hopkins farm,was down 1,679 feet at 8 a.m. Wednesday posted on the bulletin board on the grounds.

This meant that in the previous 24 hours the drill had penetrated 144 feet, compared with 104 feet the previous 24 hours.

While no information other than well depth is being given out by the company spokesmen.

* * *

INFORMATION carried in the log of the well drilled on the Washington Ice Co. grounds here 53 years ago, would indicate that the drill should strike oil-bearing sand by Wednesday night.

The baler at the Washington Ice Co. well brought up the first oil at 1,750 feet, and it was pronounced a good grade of petroleum. At 1,756 feet the Trenton sand was clearly shown and there was little salt water.

At 1,761 feet there was more sand, more oil, and salt water stood 200 feet deep in the well.

The Trenton sand extended from 1,755 feet to 1,767 feet, and the well was cased. When the well was baled 1200 feet of salt water was in it, and 25 gallons of oil was brought up with the first baler full.

The well was plugged at 1,775 feet but pumping would not remove the salt water due to poor equipment, and the well was plugged and abandoned.

Over-Optimism Could Bring A Shock

In spite of some let - down in tension in the Middle East, the threat of trouble there, which can become world - wide, is far from being entirely abated.

Yet James P. Richards, special ambassador, recently returned from that area and has indic a t e d that his mission to create peace has been successful. So do some sections of the press.

Some 120 millions of dollars in aid was granted and, it is said, adherence or approval of the Eisenhower Doctrine h a s been signified from Turkey, Iran, I r a q, Greece and Saudi Arabia.

It is also pointed out that Lebanon, Libya and Ethiopia have signed anti - Comm u n i s t declarations. Jordan, while not daring to receive Richards, accepted 10 million dollars in American aid and allegedly foiled a plot hatched by pro-Communist and pro-Nationalist Nass e r i t e Arabs. Israel impliedly subscribed to the E i s e nhower Doctrine. Syria and Egypt are now described as isolated.

This reasoning can prove deceptive and dangerous. It might help lead us to a disastrous shock. Words on paper, adherence to doctrines vaguely worded, the acceptance of aid all do not end a struggle for power. As long as Egypt and Syria have Soviet support plus strong diplom a t i c backing in the Afro-Asian bloc of t h e United Nations, these countries cannot be described as isolated.

The second round has not begun in the middle East. Points scored in round o n e are but a beginning. The Richards mission did not settle the Middle Eastern crisis in favor of the West. Such optimistic conclusions are rash. This kind of impetuous optimism threatens to become a vice of American thinking about crises abroad. It does not aid us in pursuing a sound foreign policy.

White Huntress--Big Kill at 15

NEW YORK (AP)—You m i g h t call Mirella R o c c o, the belle of the African bush, something of a tomboy.

"I killed my first wild pig with a spear when I was 8, and didn't wear shoes until I was 11," said the white h u n t r e s s. "But it wasn't until I was 15 that I bagged an elephant.

"It was the only one I shot, and the only one I ever want to.

"I was with my younger brother. I fired and hit this elephant, and a wounded elephant is a terrible thing.

"He turned and saw us, let out an ear-piercing scream and charged. He looked like a battleship. I shot him again, and he still kept coming.

"At 10 feet my brother and I both put bullets into him, and he collapsed only five feet from us, breaking his big ivory tusks as he fell. Each weighed 90 pounds.

"I made a bracelet out of the hair from his tail. You always do that with your first elephant. The natives say it brings you good luck."

At 25 Miss Rocco has acted as cameraman, guide and hunter on more than 15 safaris, bagged herself three lions, two leopards, three buffalo and "an endless amount" of antelope.

"They won't license me as a professional hunter because I am a woman," she said with a slight note of annoyance.

A woman, yes, but as the French say, "Quelle Femme!" with an all-around gal like Mirella on the dark continent, Tarzan must have been dumber than his ape buddies to waste time on a pale weakling like Jane.

Mirella, daughter of an Italian rancher, is tall, bronzed, pretty. She has lion-colored eyes and a dark tangle of hair blonded on the tips by long hours in the sun.

Educated at an English finishing school, she speaks English, Italian, French, German and three African tribal languages. She has worked on safari with half a dozen movie companies, and re ently acted as stand-in for Donna Reed in the Columbia Pictures film, "Beyond Mombasa."

Mirella lives on a 3,500 - acre ranch 75 miles from Nairobi in Kenya on the shores of Lake Nivasha. They have 1,000 acres in corn and alfalfa and 600 cattle.

The Federal Security Program

By George Sokolsky

The only justification for the President's $71,800,000,000 budget is that the security of the United States is in peril.

Otherwise, there would seem to be no need to spend all that money. The President, in h i s speech to the citizens, calls direct attention to the dan g e r s which face us.

Yet the American Jewish Congress has issued a statement to the Commission on Government Security which contains t h e s e sentences:

"The federal employe security program was initiated 10 years ago under the stress of C o m munist expansion abroad and the threat of Communist subversion at home. At the time the program was viewed as an emergency measure that would be subject to constant reconsideration and revision in the light of experience and continuing developments. . . ."

Then the American J e w i s h Congress says:

"After a decade of experience with the program, with our government strong and our peop l e united, the time for a complete revaluation of the program is long overdue. The hasty assumptions on which it was originally established and which h a v e guided it, despite some changes, ever since, must be replaced by more maturely considered c o n clusions, thoroughly grounded in our democratic traditions. . ."

The assumption here is that the Communists have become inactive and that they are no longer seeking to overthrow the government of the United States whether by force and violence or by infiltra t i o n, penetrat i o n and corruption. The facts are otherwise. The American Communist party has again become active; the Stalinists are again in control; American citizens continue to be iinvolved in espionage activities and are being caught at it. Therefore, it would be foolhardy to relax anti - Communist activities within the United States for a day.

An inevitable social phenomenon has occurred, namely, that boys and girls, who in the 1930s found it amusing to be Communists or to play along with them, are in 1957 embarrassed by the record. The principal difficulty they encounter is that m a n y Americans decline to believe that their conduct ever was as innocent as they now contend, particularly if they ever engaged in espionage activities.

Those who seek employment in the government are usually the most aggrieved. They are bothered by early affiliations, by membership in front organizat i o n s, by marriage to a wife who is a party member and similar misfortunes.

But for them it ought to be made clear that the government payroll is too big and too costly and that nobody has to work for the government and that t h e government ought to resolve all doubts in its own favor, assuming that if a man cannot get a job with the government, he might try a dime store.

The assumption that the government owes a citizen employment, even if he is a Communist, has no basis in American political theory or history. Most Americans prefer to make their own way without government aid.

During the days of the WPA, jobs were made to keep men fr m starving but today there c be no excuse for the government to hire three to do the job of one, or to keep those in office whose loyalty is questionable. All doubts of loyalty should be resolved in favor of the United States.

A to-do is made over the meaning of the word, sensitive. This is too delicate an approach to the problem. Who is to determine what position is sensitive against an enemy such as Soviet Russia? Are we to say that a janitor in the Pentagon or in the State Department is not in a sensitive position? The American Jewish Congress memorandum says:

"History has shown that t h e quest for a riskless security is futile and that democracy is more likely to survive and grow if it willingly accepts some risks in order to preserve unimpaired as far as possible the sole reason for its existence - the protection of the people's liberties."

That is a very broad statement and could, of course, not be upheld by historical citations, as there are none on the subj e c t. There has never been an order of society c a l l e d, "a democracy," until the current century when the term is bandied about loosely by all sorts of people, including many who do not believe in "th protection of the peoples liberties."

Also, regarding that there is too much loose talk because how can a country protect its people's liberties if it is conquered? We might ask that of the Hungarians.

Columbus Police Eye Cross Burning

The cross, b u r n e d Tuesday night, was taken to police headquarters for use as evidence.

It was the second time a cross had been burned at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren. A cross-burning incident at their home March 28 was said by police to be an attempt by someone outside the community to "agitate" race trouble.

Why Driving At Night Is Difficult For You

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH the summer vacation not far off, many of you undoubtedly will soon be taking to the highways.

While daytime driving can be tedious, you will probably find driving in darkness much more difficult. The major reason, of course, is because it is more difficult to see in the dark.

To help ease night-time driving a little, let me give you a few tips which may give you better night vision.

Intricate Process

First, it is probably best that I explain a little about this intricate process of seeing in near darkness. The Better Vision Institute recently came out with one of the best simplified explanations I've ever seen. Let me pass part of it on to you.

In daylight, the pupil opening of the eye is small and the light falls largely upon the cones, or central nerve ends of the retina at the back of the eye. They enable us to see color in detail.

Respond to Light

In dim light, however, the pupil is wide open. We see chiefly with millions of tiny nerve ends, called rods, which are spread over the entire surface of the retina and respond to light without great detail.

Poor light primarily utilizes the rods on the outer area which perceive only rough outlines in black and different shades of gray.

These rods enable us to see in near darkness with the aid of a substance called rhodopsin, or "visual purple," which is manufactured by the eye out of Vitamin A in the blood stream.

Bleaches Substance

Light, however, bleaches out the visual purple, turning it to yellow and then changing it back to Vitamin A. The eye begins to make more visual purple when the light disappears.

Thus, it takes the rods 30 minutes or more to build up a full supply of this visual purple after they are exposed to a bright light.

To put it simply, we have to remain in the dark for at least half an hour before our eyes become completely adapted to the absence of light.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. M.: Is Vitamin A harmful for high blood pressure?

Answer: When it is used in the proper amount, Vitamin A is not harmful for a person with high blood pressure.

The Dayton Power and Light Company

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — One week ago President Eisenhower tried to chill Congress' enthusiasm for chopping his budget to pieces by warning a big cut in defense spending would be a "needless gamble."

That was in his nationwide broadcast explaining his budget. The reaction in Congress seemed more a shrug than a chill.

For Tuesday—just a few hours before Eisenhower went on the air again to defend his foreign aid program — the House Appropriations Committee announced it wanted to chop 2½ billion dollars off the defense request.

Nevertheless, Eisenhower tried the same tactics and even the same word over again. Tuesday night he said killing or maiming his foreign aid program would be a "reckless . . . gamble."

Last week's talk was extremely mild for a President in a tremendous struggle with Congress to save his budget. It contained not a single criticism for those running around with an axe.

In a comparative sense Tuesday night's talk could be considered a little rougher. This time he did take a poke at lawmakers bent on less spending despite his protests.

He said this could lead to disaster on a road "paved with the good intentions of those blindly striving to save the money that must be s p e n t as the price of peace."

A one night stand is hardly enough, in view of what the House Appropriations Committee did to his defense program, just a week after his public plea against cutting it.

He can show how much he wants to fight by the way he follows up on Tuesday night's talk. There was no visible follow-up after his talk a week ago.

On the contrary, at his next day's news conference he said he has no intention of punishing Republicans who axed his budget, although a President has various means of penalizing a member of his own party who opposes him.

Republican leaders in Congress, who have sat down repeatedly in the White House with Eisenhower while he pleaded for his budget, have gone back to the Capitol and talked of cuts in the billions.

His news conference statement a week ago could be — and no doubt was — interpreted by them and Republicans in general as a green light and a nothing-to-worry-about sign to go ahead and hack and whack.

Before making Tuesday night's address, Eisenhower sent his foreign aid program to Congress, asking $3,865,000,000 for it, a reduction from his original request for $4,400,000,000.

A special Senate committee created to study foreign aid has already talked of cuts below the reduced figure. In the program as he outlined it, Eisenhower suggested more foreign aid be given in the form of loans, and less in gifts.

Congress will pretty surely buy that. It has already talked of that itself. So in suggesting it, Eisenhower was responding to a congressional mood already well known.

But he also suggested Congress approve long-range economic aid to give nations receiving it a chance to plan years ahead. He'll run into a lot of opposition on that, enough perhaps to turn it down.

He expressed concern Tuesday night lest foreign aid be killed altogether. He didn't stress it. He didn't have to. Congress almost certainly will continue foreign aid.

5-Year Sentence Given in Beating

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Plymouth H. Taylor, 29, Newport, N.C., was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary Tuesday. He pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the beating death of a woman hitchhiker from Ohio.

Criminal Court Judge Thomas Caro imposed sentence after Taylor, who had been indicted for second-degree murder, was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Taylor was indicted for the death of Opal Dixie Pence, also known as Opal Dixie Niece, 40, Yellow Springs, Ohio. Her body was found in a motel a few days after police said Taylor gave her a ride in his car. He was indicted Jan. 14.

Therefore, it would be foolhardy to relax anti - Communist activities within the United States for a day.

An inevitable social phenomenon has occurred, namely, that boys and girls,,who in the 1930s found it amusing to be Communists or to play along with them, are in 1957 embarrassed by the record. The principal difficulty they encounter is that m a n y Americans decline to believe that their conduct ever was as innocent as they now contend, particularly if they ever engaged in espionage activities.

Those who seek employment in the govern.ment are usually the most aggrieved. They are bothered by early affiliations, by membership in front organizat i o n s, by marriage to a wife who is a party member and similar misfortunes.

But for them it ought to be made clear that the government payroll is too big and too costly and that nobody has to work for the government and that t h e government ought to resolve all doubts in its own favor, assuming that if a man cannot get a job with the government, he might try a dime store.

The assumption that the government owes a citizen employment, even if he is a Communist, has no basis in American political theory or history. Most Americans prefer to make their own way without government aid.

During the days of the WPA, jobs were made to keep men fr m starving but today there c. be no excuse for the government to hire three to do the job of one, or to keep those in office whose loyalty is questionable. All doubts of loyalty should be resolved in favor of the United States.

A to-do is made over the meaning of the word, sensitive. This is too delicate an approach to the problem. Who is to determine what position is sensitive against an enemy such as Soviet Russia? Are we to say that a janitor in the Pentagon or in the State Department is not in a sensitive position? The American Jewish Congress memorandum says:

"History has shown that t h e quest for a riskless security is futile and that democracy is more likely to survive and grow if it willingly accepts some risks in order to preserve unimpaired as far as possible the sole reason for its existence - the protection of the people's liberties."

That is a very broad statement and could, of course, not be upheld by historical citations, as there are none on the subj e c t. There has never been an order of society c a l l e d, "a democracy," until the current century when the term is bandied about loosely by all sorts of people, including many who do not believe in "th protection of the peoples liberties."

Also, regarding that there is too much loose talk because how can a country protect its people's liberties if it is conquered? We might ask that of the Hungarians.

Columbus Police Eye Cross Burning

The cross, b u r n e d Tuesday night, was taken to police headquarters for use as evidence.

It was the second time a cross had been burned at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren. A cross-burning incident at their home March 28 was said by police to be an attempt by someone outside the community to "agitate" race trouble.

Why Driving At Night Is Difficult For You

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH the summer vacation not far off, many of you undoubtedly will soon be taking to the highways.

While daytime driving can be tedious, you will probably find driving in darkness much more difficult. The major reason, of course, is because it is more difficult to see in the dark.

To help ease night-time driving a little, let me give you a few tips which may give you better night vision.

Intricate Process

First, it is probably best that I explain a little about this intricate process of seeing in near darkness. The Better Vision Institute recently came out with one of the best simplified explanations I've ever seen. Let me pass part of it on to you.

In daylight, the pupil opening of the eye is small and the light falls largely upon the cones, or central nerve ends of the retina at the back of the eye. They enable us to see color in detail.

Respond to Light

In dim light, however, the pupil is wide open. We see chiefly with millions of tiny nerve ends, called rods, which are spread over the entire surface of the retina and respond to light without great detail.

Poor light primarily utilizes the rods on the outer area which perceive only rough outlines in black and different shades of gray.

These rods enable us to see in near darkness with the aid of a substance called rhodopsin, or "visual purple," which is manufactured by the eye out of Vitamin A in the blood stream.

Bleaches Substance

Light, however, bleaches out the visual purple, turning it to yellow and then changing it back to Vitamin A. The eye begins to make more visual purple when the light disappears.

Thus, it takes the rods 30 minutes or more to build up a full supply of this visual purple after they are exposed to a bright light.

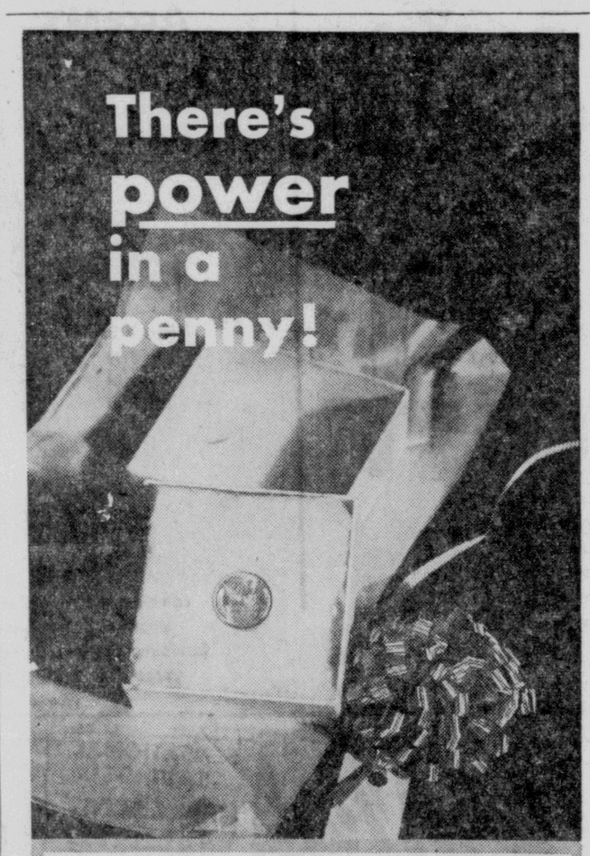

To put it simply, we have to remain in the dark for at least half an hour before our eyes become completely adapted to the absence of light.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

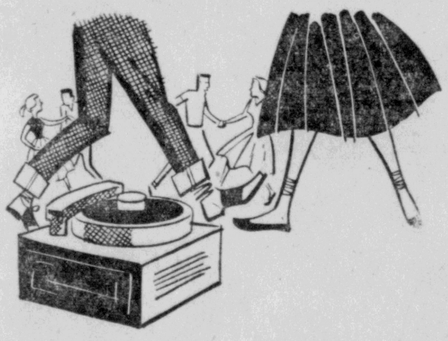

R. M.: Is Vitamin A harmful for high blood pressure?

Answer: When it is used in the proper amount, Vitamin A is not harmful for a person with high blood pressure.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — One week ago President Eisenhower tried to chill Congress' enthusiasm for chopping his budget to pieces by warning a big cut in defense spending would be a "needless gamble."

That was in his nationwide broadcast explaining his budget. The reaction in Congress seemed more a shrug than a chill.

For Tuesday—just a few hours before Eisenhower went on the air again to defend his foreign aid program — the House Appropriations Committee announced it wanted to chop 2½ billion dollars off the defense request.

Nevertheless, Eisenhower tried the same tactics and even the same word over again. Tuesday night he said killing or maiming his foreign aid program would be a "reckless . . . gamble."

Last week's talk was extremely mild for a President in a tremendous struggle with Congress to save his budget. It contained not a single criticism for those running around with an axe.

In a comparative sense Tuesday night's talk could be considered a little rougher. This time he did take a poke at lawmakers bent on less spending despite his protests.

He said this could lead to disaster on a road "paved with the good intentions of those blindly striving to save the money that must be s p e n t as the price of peace."

A one night stand is hardly enough, in view of what the House Appropriations Committee did to his defense program, just a week after his public plea against cutting it.

He can show how much he wants to fight by the way he follows up on Tuesday night's talk. There was no visible follow-up after his talk a week ago.

On the contrary, at his next day's news conference he said he has no intention of punishing Republicans who axed his budget, although a President has various means of penalizing a member of his own party who opposes him.

Republican leaders in Congress, who have sat down repeatedly in the White House with Eisenhower while he pleaded for his budget, have gone back to the Capitol and talked of cuts in the billions.

His news conference statement a week ago could be — and no doubt was — interpreted by them and Republicans in general as a green light and a nothing-to-worry-about sign to go ahead and hack and whack.

Before making Tuesday night's address, Eisenhower sent his foreign aid program to Congress, asking $3,865,000,000 for it, a reduction from his original request for $4,400,000,000.

A special Senate committee created to study foreign aid has already talked of cuts below the reduced figure. In the program as he outlined it, Eisenhower suggested more foreign aid be given in the form of loans, and less in gifts.

Congress will pretty surely buy that. It has already talked of that itself. So in suggesting it, Eisenhower was responding to a congressional mood already well known.

But he also suggested Congress approve long-range economic aid to give nations receiving it a chance to plan years ahead. He'll run into a lot of opposition on that, enough perhaps to turn it down.

He expressed concern Tuesday night lest foreign aid be killed altogether. He didn't stress it. He didn't have to. Congress almost certainly will continue foreign aid.

5-Year Sentence Given in Beating

Criminal Court Judge Thomas Caro imposed sentence after Taylor, who had been indicted for second-degree murder, was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Taylor was indicted for the death of Opal Dixie Pence, also known as Opal Dixie Niece, 40, Yellow Springs, Ohio. Her body was found in a motel a few days after police said Taylor gave her a ride in his car. He was indicted Jan. 14.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Is it absolutely hopeless for an employe to earn the respect and consideration of an officer of the employing company? Or is it a fixed rule that the employe must bow down to unpleasant supervision?

All through my years of job preparation, the importance was stressed of knowing the job, and seeing what is to be done and doing it. But, to my consternation, I find that knowledge or procedure is disapproved in this situation. In fact, it seems the only diplomacy is to pretend I wouldn't know how to pick up the phone without instructions—and I daren't answer it unless I'm told to.

I realize that much of the trouble stems from my own anxiety to give a good performance and hold the job—and I feel I could do much better if I knew more about the business practises here. But such knowledge is denied me, on the terms I need.

When work is discussed, that will come to my desk to be recorded, there is a private conference behind closed doors. Then, weeks later, if I don't know all about the matter, this officer makes very uncomplimentary remarks. And he is the only staff person with whom I have any unpleasant moments.

Is there any way I might influence him to be more tolerant of me? I know it would be practically impossible to find another job at my age.

L. L.

DEAR O. L.: In all probability you are having trouble with this particular officer mainly because he happens to be your immediate superior—or your boss in the office hierarchy.

And it is a possibility worth considering, that you aren't getting along well with him, largely because you are (or have been) tactlessly insistent on trying to give him the benefit of your theories of how to be helpful—instead of taking your cue from his ideas and his temperament.

It is a characteristic blunder of older women to become subtly difficult, in terms of psychological rigidit and emotional resistance, when crossed, corrected, given orders, treated as a subordinate, etc., in the business world. For the most part, they just "can't take it" amiably, and fall in line with the leader's requirements — as younger persons can, who aren't yet so sensitive about their "importance."

As of now, you've made a big issue, in your mind, of the officer's methods, as versus your theories. And unconsciously you've felt a necessity to prove yourself right, and prove him wrong. Hence the antagonistic undertone of your anxiety, which evokes his dislike.

Instead of trying to adjust to such tension, why don't you relax into wholehearted acceptance of his ways of doing? That will be easier, and should have a good effect on him, too.

Miss Shelby Jean Long will be the maid of honor for her friend. Mr. Leroy Snyder will serve as best man.

Members Meet For Dinner and Social Evening

A steak dinner was enjoyed by members of the Hairdresser's Guild when they met in Anderson's Restaurant Monday evening.

The long table was arranged with baskets of flowers and softly burning tapers. Thirteen members and guests were present for the dinner and social evening.

The entertainment program was conducted by Mrs. William Stoughton. Games were played and prizes were awarded.

Mrs. Ernestine Chichester, president, then presented Mrs. Stoughton, the retiring president, with a necklace and earrings, a gift of appreciation from the local chapter.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Is it absolutely hopeless for an employe to earn the respect and consideration of an officer of the employing company? Or is it a fixed rule that the employe must bow down to unpleasant supervision?

All through my years of job preparation, the importance was stressed of knowing the job, and seeing what is to be done and doing it. But, to my consternation, I find that knowledge or procedure is disapproved in this situation. In fact, it seems the only diplomacy is to pretend I wouldn't know how to pick up the phone without instructions—and I daren't answer it unless I'm told to.

I realize that much of the trouble stems from my own anxiety to give a good performance and hold the job—and I feel I could do much better if I knew more about the business practises here. But such knowledge is denied me, on the terms I need.

When work is discussed, that will come to my desk to be recorded, there is a private conference behind closed doors. Then, weeks later, if I don't know all about the matter, this officer makes very uncomplimentary remarks. And he is the only staff person with whom I have any unpleasant moments.

Is there any way I might influence him to be more tolerant of me? I know it would be practically impossible to find another job at my age.

L. L.

DEAR O. L.: In all probability you are having trouble with this particular officer mainly because he happens to be your immediate superior—or your boss in the office hierarchy.

And it is a possibility worth considering, that you aren't getting along well with him, largely because you are (or have been) tactlessly insistent on trying to give him the benefit of your theories of how to be helpful—instead of taking your cue from his ideas and his temperament.

It is a characteristic blunder of older women to become subtly difficult, in terms of psychological rigidit and emotional resistance, when crossed, corrected, given orders, treated as a subordinate, etc., in the business world. For the most part, they just "can't take it" amiably, and fall in line with the leader's requirements — as younger persons can, who aren't yet so sensitive about their "importance."

As of now, you've made a big issue, in your mind, of the officer's methods, as versus your theories. And unconsciously you've felt a necessity to prove yourself right, and prove him wrong. Hence the antagonistic undertone of your anxiety, which evokes his dislike.

Instead of trying to adjust to such tension, why don't you relax into wholehearted acceptance of his ways of doing? That will be easier, and should have a good effect on him, too.

Scouts Banquet Here Friday Night

Plans for the annual banquet for adult Scout leaders at the Country Club here at 6:30 p.m. Friday today were complete, except for the last minute details.

The purpose of the banquet and meeting that will follow is two-fold: (1) To give recognition to the unit leaders for their services to the Scout program during the past year and (2) to summarize and review the year's accomplishments.

Principal speaker of the evening will be a professional Scouter, Perle Whitehead, an executive of the Ohio-Kentucky-West Virginia region.

TV Themes Stress 1920s

Critic Believes Trend Not Industry Plot

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Television has been displaying an interesting affinity for the 1920s this season in program after program.

Most recently there was the instance of the story of Helen Morgan, superbly played by Polly Bergen, on "Playhouse 90" (CBS-TV). A few nights previously Mickey Rooney brought us George M. Cohan in "Mr. Broadway" over NBC-TV. A couple of weeks before that NBC did the story of singer Gene Austin.

"The Jazz Age," narrated by the late Fred Allen, was the best of the "Project 20" series this year. The works of F. Scott Fitzgerald, who so brilliantly expressed the spirit of the 1920s, have proved a fertile source for TV drama. (This Thursday, for example, "Playhouse 90" will present his "Winter Dreams.") Drama after drama has harkened back 30 years for theme and story.

Television's preoccupation with the 1920s is pleasant because it's unplanned and one of the medium's rare trends that does not seem to have been plotted by the business offices. Actually, the decade strikes a nostalgic note with only a minority of viewers. (Come to think of it, I have never heard anyone express a wish to be living back in the 20s.) There are a variety of reasons, however.

For one thing the decade was the last that developed a number of colorful, personally uninhibited performers whose lives and works have slipped far enough into the past to be available to the TV medium. Younger viewers may be unfamiliar with them, but they're interested. It was a rare person under 30 who had heard of Gene Austin before NBC resurrected him. Almost as rare were the young people who had heard of Helen Morgan.

More significant, however, is the spirit of the 1920s, as it is recalled to us. It was the last romantic decade before depression and wars and international responsibilities taught us that the sky does have a limit. It began with a bang and ended with a whimper—or, if you will, it began with enchantment and ended with disenchantment. It's the mood of disenchantment that has come down to us.

Interestingly, those television programs about characters and incidents of the decade which attempt a measure of transcribing its mood have generally been successful. Those that ignore the temper of the times with which they're concerned have generally been unsuccessful.

We understand disenchantment; we recognize its emotion and intellectual validity. That is why we can identify ourselves with TV programs which sound that theme from the 1920s. Certainly we rarely find the theme expressed in television drama about our own times.

Designer Battles Problem: Fitting Furs to Wee Lady

By DOROTHY IOE
Associated Press Women's Editor

A little woman in a big fur coat is likely to look as if she were wrestling with a grizzly bear, says Adele Simpson, the 4-foot-10 designer who took to creating her own fashions in sheer self defense.

"All my life I've felt as if I'd been swallowed by a fur rug every time I tried to get elegant in mink or sable," says Adele. "This is a sad thing. Little women need to feel important, and there's no better prescription for that poised, superior feeling the no mink coat—if it doesn't defeat its own purposes by overpowering the wearer.

"Furs are pretty psychological, you know. A woman can get a real neurosis brooding about not having a fur coat. And if she has one but can't get on friendly terms with it, things are even worse."

As an answer to the little woman's fur psychosis, Mrs. Simpson has designed a collection of furs for fall planned specifically to make the woman feel more important than her coat. Many are little furs — capes, stoles jackets, cardigans, hats, belts and bags. Others are full-fledged fur coats, but cut with restraint

"Most fur designers are men,' says Mrs. Simpson, "and they've never worn a fur coat, so how can they know the things that bother women about furs? Now a woman knows that if a fur collar is cut wrong it can make her look as if she has no neck, and that if a sleeve is too wide it can give the effect of a barrel. She also knows that a coat shouldn't have to be clutched, as this becomes difficult if she has her arms full of packages."

The furs in the new collection are not exclusively for little women, but all emphasize simplicity and smooth lines.

"I hate to see a coat where the skins look tortured," she says. "A beautiful fur doesn't need any extra touches; it looks best just as it is."

Importance of Good Water Stressed by Health Experts

While for the present moment, Fayette County people are exhibiting some unusual interest in watching results in this community in oil drilling, Fayette County Health Department authorities seek to impress all residents of the county that adequate potable water and the manner in which it is obtained continues to be of the utmost importance to this community's future.

Most people living in the rural districts must obtain their water from individual wells and a proper supply is vital.

• • •

"PROPER LOCATION, development and construction of wells are highly important in providing safe water. A well should be located as far as reasonably possible from sources of contamination such as barnyards, cesspools, sewers, privies, septic tanks and similar structures."

Septic tanks and tile fields should be located down hill from the well and all sewers within 50 feet of the well must be watertight. No sewer should be located within 10 feet of a well.

Added protection to the water supply is provided when the well is located on higher ground than any possible source of contamination. The well casing should be surrounded by a sloping concrete platform for a distance of at least two feet in all directions.

"Water means life, it can be clean and safe for you to use or it can bring illness to your family. Consult your local health department for information on proper well construction and development."

Social Worker Pay Scales Said Low

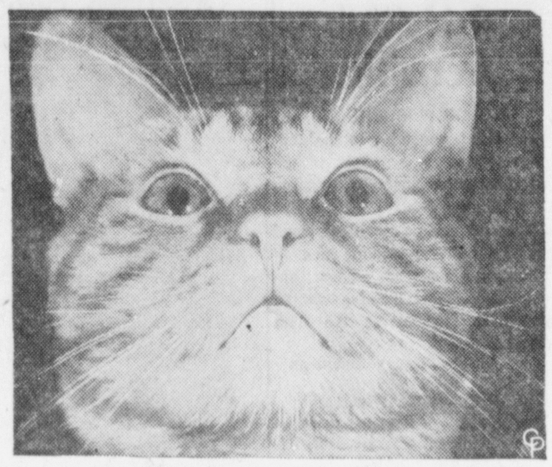

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Social workers do not make as much money as persons in industry with comparable jobs, says an Ohio banker.

Elwood V. Denton, assistant cashier of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, told the National Conference of Social Welfare here his conclusion was based on a year's study by the Case Work Council of the Welfare Federation of Cleveland.

The discrepancies, ranging from two to nearly 50 per cent, occurred mainly in executive positions, Denton said.

SHE'S A COPY-CAT FOR NEWSMEN

NAMED "SCOOP" by reporters covering the Brooklyn, N. Y., police headquarters, this cat has provided many a human-interest story for which she has been well paid by the newsmen with bits of liver or fish. So, one can imagine "Scoop's" indignation, as pictured here, when some of the cops suggested that she be ordered to go to work on mice by way of earning her keep at the station. (International)

Ike Urging Prayers For Peace on May 30

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has proclaimed Memorial Day, May 30, "as a day of prayer for permanent peace."

"I call upon all the people of the nation," the proclamation said, "to dedicate that day to prayer; and I designate the hour beginning in each locality at 11 o'clock in the morning as a period in which all of us, wherever we may be, may lift up our voices in thanksgiving for the courage of our fallen, in supplication for God's aid in averting war and in dedication to unceasing work for the attainment of a peaceful world."

When authorized by an Act of Congress, March 16, 1802, the strength of the corps of cadets at the United States Military academy was set at five officers and 10 men. Today the authorized strength of the corps is 2,496.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

The new monotrol traffic light system is now in full use, scheduled to give service in line with the amount of traffic on the respective streets.

For instance the lights provide a little more time for the heavy traffic to move over Court St., except at the Fayette St. intersection, where the Fayette St., traffic also is heavy, and gets about an even break with Court St., on the length between changes of lights.

As the flow of traffic increases on Court St. during rush hours, the lights are automatically set to give more time for prompt movement of traffic.

Already advantages of the new system are apparent, and in the meantime results are being studied with a view to improving the service provided if it is possible to do so.

Under the new system it is not possible for all traffic lights to cease functioning at the same time, as in the old system, for each light, in addition to being hooked up with the master control, has its own control unit which would keep it functioning even if the master control system was disrupted.

"Fire lanes" in the system have been tested and found to work in a most satisfactory manner.

NIGHT-PRESENT AND PAST

One can hardly go into any part of the county at night without hearing the roar of trucks and other motor vehicles as they dash over the highly improved roads at 40 to 80 miles an hour, and without seeing the glare of billiant headlights and the electric lights showing through the windows of homes.

Electricity now reaches almost every home in Fayette County, for light and power, and with radio and television in so many of the homes, it is little wonder that lights from farm homes are seen until late into the night.

With the hundreds of miles of improved highways in the county it is now possible to reach any part of the county in a surprisingly short space of time.

What a difference there is in the county at night than when the first settlers came into the county more than 150 years ago and took up their abode in the unbroken forests.

In those days the night noises were quite different, and of a character to make brave hearts beat just a little faster, for death lurked in the shadows of the forests in the shape of wild animals, including bears, panthers and wildcats, ready to attack man or beast without provocation.

In addition to the screams of the panthers on the prowl, and other blood-curdling noises, the weird and chilling hoots of the great horned owls could be heard on all sides, and the screech owls set up a din that was not only eerie but most distracting.

The forests were full of all kinds of noises, but the sturdy pioneers, secure in their strong log cabins with barred windows and doors, and with their livestock fastened in log barns with heavy doors, soon became accustomed to the night noises and slept undisturbed. However the blast of a rifle could be heard occasionally as some pioneer took a shot at a bear prowling about his cabin.

In those early days no roads were improved: no bridges existed: no welcoming lights were seen in the darkness, and those who ventured forth at night did so with gun and hunting knife ready for instant use, and usually in groups instead of going singly.

There is certainly some difference between the nights in Fayette County today and when white man first came into the county to pave the way for succeeding generations.

SOME OLD BELIEFS

Following are some of the old beliefs brought to light by N. N. Puckett, of the Department of Sociology, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, which I received recently, and most of which have been heard in Fayette County for lo, these many years:

Here they are:

When a rat gnaws your clothing, it is a sign of death.

If a horse can roll completely over it is worth $100.

If a wild bird flies into your room, or lights on your shoulder and chirps, it is a sign of death.

A warm breeze on your neck is a sign of a ghost.

Flowers should be planted in the sign of the Posy Lady.

If a dog howls with its head raised, there will be a fire.

Stepping into a church with the right foot first will bring good luck.

You will have bad luck if you play with a Bible.

If a merchant does not sell his first customer Monday morning, he will have poor sales all week.

If you use a knife to open a letter you will quarrel with the writer.

30 YEARS AGO

• • •

Four horses owned by Fred Hamm, of the Robinson Rd., were electrocuted when a wire, broken by a windstorm, fell upon them as they stood in the edge of a field near the east bank of Paint Creek.

Charles Lindberg made his famous trans-Atlantic flight to Paris, being the first airman to span the Atlantic, and he was met by a crowd of 25,000 wildly cheering people, given the legion of honor, and other honors.

Silas J. Paul, city, and his daughter, Mrs. Jennie Rathenberger, of Fostoria, were reunited here after 50 years separation during which time neither knew the other was alive.

Gasoline tax in Ohio was raised from 2 to 3 cents a gallon. (Now it is 8 cents per gallon of which 5 cents is state tax and three cents federal tax).

Tyrone Power Explains Why Stars Departing Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — What has happened to Hollywood, once the undisputed entertainment capital of the world?

More and more stars—like Marilyn Monroe, Ava Gardner, Stewart Granger, Jean Simmons, Joan Crawford — have moved their homes to other parts of the country or the world, coming "home" only to make occasional movies.

This is an important change from Hollywood of the '30s and '40s. I got some insight on the change from another of the famed evacuees, Tyrone Power. He has kept his Hollywood house because he wants a permanent home for his two children by Linda Christian.

But Ty prefers to go where his career takes him— to Paris and here for "The Sun Also Rises," to England for stage and screen work. He also keeps an apartment in New York.

I asked why he, a longtime California, had virtually given up the sunny state.

"One reason is the weather," he said. "When I was working at Columbia, I noticed the smog really affected me quite badly. It's a terrible situation.

"And then there's the traffic. I didn't realize how bad it had gotten. Drives that used to take 20 minutes now stretch to 35 and 40.

"Another reason is what has happened to Hollywood itself. There used to be a fairly well defined movie colony of people you knew. Now a lot of those people have gone away and others, not necessarily of the movie business, have come in.

"Movies used to be of supreme importance in Hollywood. Now they are just an adjunct."

The newcomers to Hollywood don't have the flair of their predecessors, he commented. I agreed, declaring such colorful figures as himself are missed.

I asked him if he was planning to add to the movie lore with another marriage.

"No, no, he protested. "I won't say I'll never marry again, because that's pretty final. But I'm very happy the way I am now. I've been single again for two years now, and I like it this way."

Evangelist's Wife

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

The new monotrol traffic light system is now in full use, scheduled to give service in line with the amount of traffic on the respective streets.

For instance the lights provide a little more time for the heavy traffic to move over Court St., except at the Fayette St. intersection, where the Fayette St., traffic also is heavy, and gets about an even break with Court St., on the length between changes of lights.

As the flow of traffic increases on Court St. during rush hours, the lights are automatically set to give more time for prompt movement of traffic.

Already advantages of the new system are apparent, and in the meantime results are being studied with a view to improving the service provided if it is possible to do so.

Under the new system it is not possible for all traffic lights to cease functioning at the same time, as in the old system, for each light, in addition to being hooked up with the master control, has its own control unit which would keep it functioning even if the master control system was disrupted.

"Fire lanes" in the system have been tested and found to work in a most satisfactory manner.

NIGHT-PRESENT AND PAST

One can hardly go into any part of the county at night without hearing the roar of trucks and other motor vehicles as they dash over the highly improved roads at 40 to 80 miles an hour, and without seeing the glare of billiant headlights and the electric lights showing through the windows of homes.

Electricity now reaches almost every home in Fayette County, for light and power, and with radio and television in so many of the homes, it is little wonder that lights from farm homes are seen until late into the night.

With the hundreds of miles of improved highways in the county it is now possible to reach any part of the county in a surprisingly short space of time.

What a difference there is in the county at night than when the first settlers came into the county more than 150 years ago and took up their abode in the unbroken forests.

In those days the night noises were quite different, and of a character to make brave hearts beat just a little faster, for death lurked in the shadows of the forests in the shape of wild animals, including bears, panthers and wildcats, ready to attack man or beast without provocation.

In addition to the screams of the panthers on the prowl, and other blood-curdling noises, the weird and chilling hoots of the great horned owls could be heard on all sides, and the screech owls set up a din that was not only eerie but most distracting.

The forests were full of all kinds of noises, but the sturdy pioneers, secure in their strong log cabins with barred windows and doors, and with their livestock fastened in log barns with heavy doors, soon became accustomed to the night noises and slept undisturbed. However the blast of a rifle could be heard occasionally as some pioneer took a shot at a bear prowling about his cabin.

In those early days no roads were improved: no bridges existed: no welcoming lights were seen in the darkness, and those who ventured forth at night did so with gun and hunting knife ready for instant use, and usually in groups instead of going singly.

There is certainly some difference between the nights in Fayette County today and when white man first came into the county to pave the way for succeeding generations.

SOME OLD BELIEFS

Following are some of the old beliefs brought to light by N. N. Puckett, of the Department of Sociology, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, which I received recently, and most of which have been heard in Fayette County for lo, these many years:

Here they are:

When a rat gnaws your clothing, it is a sign of death.

If a horse can roll completely over it is worth $100.

If a wild bird flies into your room, or lights on your shoulder and chirps, it is a sign of death.

A warm breeze on your neck is a sign of a ghost.

Flowers should be planted in the sign of the Posy Lady.

If a dog howls with its head raised, there will be a fire.

Stepping into a church with the right foot first will bring good luck.

You will have bad luck if you play with a Bible.

If a merchant does not sell his first customer Monday morning, he will have poor sales all week.

If you use a knife to open a letter you will quarrel with the writer.

Four horses owned by Fred Hamm, of the Robinson Rd., were electrocuted when a wire, broken by a windstorm, fell upon them as they stood in the edge of a field near the east bank of Paint Creek.

Charles Lindberg made his famous trans-Atlantic flight to Paris, being the first airman to span the Atlantic, and he was met by a crowd of 25,000 wildly cheering people, given the legion of honor, and other honors.

Silas J. Paul, city, and his daughter, Mrs. Jennie Rathenberger, of Fostoria, were reunited here after 50 years separation during which time neither knew the other was alive.

Gasoline tax in Ohio was raised from 2 to 3 cents a gallon. (Now it is 8 cents per gallon of which 5 cents is state tax and three cents federal tax).

Tyrone Power Explains Why Stars Departing Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — What has happened to Hollywood, once the undisputed entertainment capital of the world?

More and more stars—like Marilyn Monroe, Ava Gardner, Stewart Granger, Jean Simmons, Joan Crawford — have moved their homes to other parts of the country or the world, coming "home" only to make occasional movies.

This is an important change from Hollywood of the '30s and '40s. I got some insight on the change from another of the famed evacuees, Tyrone Power. He has kept his Hollywood house because he wants a permanent home for his two children by Linda Christian.

But Ty prefers to go where his career takes him— to Paris and here for "The Sun Also Rises," to England for stage and screen work. He also keeps an apartment in New York.

I asked why he, a longtime California, had virtually given up the sunny state.

"One reason is the weather," he said. "When I was working at Columbia, I noticed the smog really affected me quite badly. It's a terrible situation.

"And then there's the traffic. I didn't realize how bad it had gotten. Drives that used to take 20 minutes now stretch to 35 and 40.

"Another reason is what has happened to Hollywood itself. There used to be a fairly well defined movie colony of people you knew. Now a lot of those people have gone away and others, not necessarily of the movie business, have come in.

"Movies used to be of supreme importance in Hollywood. Now they are just an adjunct."

The newcomers to Hollywood don't have the flair of their predecessors, he commented. I agreed, declaring such colorful figures as himself are missed.

I asked him if he was planning to add to the movie lore with another marriage.

"No, no, he protested. "I won't say I'll never marry again, because that's pretty final. But I'm very happy the way I am now. I've been single again for two years now, and I like it this way."

Businessmen, Ike's Advisers Fail to Agree

Presidential Aides Very Optimistic, but Merchants Cautious

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The economists who advise the President apparently don't share all the doubts that beset businessmen today.

Studying conflicting indicators, many businessmen aren't quite sure which way the cat is going to jump.

But President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers sees almost all phases of the nation's economy climbing to new heights this year.

And it finds business getting more profitable. More companies appear to be licking the profit squeeze — the rising operation costs that have lowered profit margins uncomfortably for many firms.

The council has revised its estimate of corporate profits after taxes for the final quarter of 1956 to bring them to an annual rate just above 23 billion dollars, a record. In the immediately preceding quarters the profit rate had been declining.

The council further estimates that in the first three months of this year the annual rate held just 100 million dollars below the record. Since fourth quarters are often the best of the year, the slight dip in this years first quarter was expected.

In fact many businessmen had expected a considerable drop. And stock market traders bid down prices until mid-February, appearing to believe that the profit squeeze might trigger a recession.

The council reports, however, that the 1957 first quarter figures were 6½ per cent higher than those in the like period of 1956.

Also on the sunny side of the economic street is the report that the dollar value of all goods and services in the first months of this year set a record annual rate of 427 billion dollars.

This takes considerable of the chill off the fact that the steel and other metal output figures have been falling, that auto production is a bit under earlier hopes, that the pickup in home building this spring has been slight, that gains in dollar volume of retail trade appear to be mostly due to higher prices.

These rising prices bother the President's economic advisers, however. They warn that increasing inflationary pressures can make some of the records toward which the economy is heading largely illusionary.

Dollar volume isn't the same as unit volume. And still more price rises are in the offing. Example: A wage boost set for this summer is expected to add from $6 to $8 to the price of a ton of steel.

This won't help manufacturers who use steel and who are trying to hold down their operating costs.

But in spite of the illusion that rising prices give to some of our economic indicators, industrial output as a whole has been holding remarkably level for months.

The industrial production index is supposed to measure unit volume rather than dollar volume. Since last September it has varied by only one point.

In that period steel production has gone up and down. Auto output has gone up and down. But other industries have varied, too, and always by enough to offset the fluctuations in steel and autos.

It may be this general stability that is giving the President's advisers the belief that the economy is pushing ahead rather than receding, and that the year will see some records set.

Buffalo Bill's Stagecoach Rolls Again

By RALPH FRIEDMAN
Central Press Assn.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — The shade of Buffalo Bill rides again every fair day on the ground of the Broadmoor Hotel here.

The hotel owns the famous William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody's stagecoach to which it hitches four Norwegian Duns for a spin in the shadow of Cheyenne mountain, on which an impressive memorial stands in honor of another great western figure, Will Rogers.

Cody's coach was built specifically for him, at a cost of $1,800, by Abbot Downing Company, renowned carriage makers of Concord, N. H. It was taken by rail to Boston, then shipped around the Horn to Portland, Ore. From Portland it was driven 950 miles over the Old Oregon trail to Cody, Wyo., the frontier town named after the colorful showman.

* * *

BUFFALO BILL ordered the coach delivered unpainted so he could inspect the wood and workmanship.

When his keen eyes at last put the seal of approval on the coach, it was painted and put into service from Cody to Pahaska Tepee (TE Ranch), Buffalo Bill's hunting lodge.

The ranch, home to Cody in his declining years, looked toward the lofty peaks of the Wind River range, whose wild slopes early mountain men knew so well.

Among the celebrities whom Buffalo Bill entertained at the TE ranch and who rode the stagecoach were Teddy Roosevelt, Diamond Jim Brady, Death Valley Scotty, and numerous members of European royalty.

* * *

* * *

WHEN motorized transportation put horse-drawn stages out of profitable action, the coach was put in storage at Cody. There it remained, forgotten and gathering cobwebs, until 1948, when it was discovered by R. E. Hazard of San Diego, Calif., who purchased it for his museum.

Seven years later, in the autumn of 1952, the Broadmoor hotel bought the Buffalo Bill coach from Hazard, together with a Jack Post stage and an old Conestoga wagon for its collection of vehicles. They are housed in the El Pomar Carriage House museum, open to visitors.

The Norwegian Duns, which draw the Buffalo Bill coach, are rarely seen in the United States. The Broadmoor owns six of them

Brought to this country from Norway, where they are known as fjord ponies, the Duns are noted for their strength and surefootedness and for their even tempers and gentle dispositions.

* * *

IT IS SAID Will Rogers' spirit sometimes comes down the hill, grinning broad as the prairie, to hop a ride on the shining coach.

There's a legend around Colorado Springs which says that when Will Rogers and Buffalo Bill get together, on Cody's famous coach, you can hear the wind rippling and roaring behind the hooves of the ponies.

Those who swear by this legend say the wind is laughter, tall story laughter hearty as the epic of the west.

Paulette Callender, who was in charge of the program for the meeting of the Washington Junior Garden Club, told the eight members there about "Flowers for Early Planting." She said that spring flowering bulbs, planted properly, will produce flowers from February through May. Selection of bulbs, she said, is important for quality flowers and color combinations.

She suggested drifts or small colonies of snowdrops or yellow winter aconite and blue chiondosa, daffodils and Chinese witchhazel for February; crocus and the blue, purple, white and yellow hybrid Dutch crocus for March; yellow daffodils, grape hyacinth, forsythia, Japanese cherry; magnolia, flowering almond, lilac and tulips for April and primroses, bleeding hearts and for-get-me-nots for April and May.

The meeting was held at the home of Julia Brunner, with Sharma Ware presiding. The roll call was answered by naming a flower suitable for use in a May basket.

Mrs. Elza Woodruff, president of the senior garden club, presented the junior club some lemon lily bulbs.

A tour of Buck's Greenhouses in the near future was planned.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Building House On State Line Brings Troubles

TOLEDO (AP) — When William Fleitz started building his new house, he put it on the Ohio-Michigan line for a novelty. He's had nothing but headaches since.

Two thirds of the house is in Michigan, the front third in Ohio.

So far, he's had to take out two building permits for the $34,000 house and is in a battle with the city of Toledo and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. to get water and gas.

The utilities claim it would be a violation of Interstate Commerce Commission rules to extend service to the house. Toledo Edison Co. agreed to provide electricity after Fleitz put a meter on the Ohio side of his house.

A future headache will be paying taxes in two states.

Among the celebrities whom Buffalo Bill entertained at the TE ranch and who rode the stagecoach were Teddy Roosevelt. Diamond Jim Brady, Death Valley Scotty, and numerous members of European royalty.

* * *

* * *

WHEN motorized transportation put horse-drawn stages out of profitable action, the coach was put in storage at Cody. There it remained, forgotten and gathering cobwebs, until 1948, when it was discovered by R. E. Hazard of San Diego, Calif., who purchased it for his museum.

Seven years later, in the autumn of 1952, the Broadmoor hotel bought the Buffalo Bill coach from Hazard, together with a Jack Post stage and an old Conestoga wagon for its collection of vehicles. They are housed in the El Pomar Carriage House museum, open to visitors.

The Norwegian Duns, which draw the Buffalo Bill coach, are rarely seen in the United States. The Broadmoor owns six of them

Brought to this country from Norway, where they are known as fjord ponies, the Duns are noted for their strength and surefootedness and for their even tempers and gentle dispositions.

* * *

IT IS SAID Will Rogers' spirit sometimes comes down the hill, grinning broad as the prairie, to hop a ride on the shining coach.

There's a legend around Colorado Springs which says that when Will Rogers and Buffalo Bill get together, on Cody's famous coach, you can hear the wind rippling and roaring behind the hooves of the ponies.

Those who swear by this legend say the wind is laughter, tall story laughter hearty as the epic of the west.

Paulette Callender, who was in charge of the program for the meeting of the Washington Junior Garden Club, told the eight members there about "Flowers for Early Planting." She said that spring flowering bulbs, planted properly, will produce flowers from February through May. Selection of bulbs, she said, is important for quality flowers and color combinations.

She suggested drifts or small colonies of snowdrops or yellow winter aconite and blue chiondosa, daffodils and Chinese witchhazel for February; crocus and the blue, purple, white and yellow hybrid Dutch crocus for March; yellow daffodils, grape hyacinth, forsythia, Japanese cherry; magnolia, flowering almond, lilac and tulips for April and primroses, bleeding hearts and for-get-me-nots for April and May.

The meeting was held at the home of Julia Brunner, with Sharma Ware presiding. The roll call was answered by naming a flower suitable for use in a May basket.

Mrs. Elza Woodruff, president of the senior garden club, presented the junior club some lemon lily bulbs.

A tour of Buck's Greenhouses in the near future was planned.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Union Asks Pay Hike For Cincy Employes

CINCINNATI (AP)—Al Pilik, business representative for district Council 51 of the State, County and Municipal Employes Union has asked city officials for a 1958 pay increase of $6 a week for the 2,000 city employes who are members of the union.

Officials said such an increase would cost the city about $28,028,000 a year since about 4,500 other city employes usually get the same across-the-board pay boost granted union members

Building House On State Line Brings Troubles

TOLEDO (AP) — When William Fleitz started building his new house, he put it on the Ohio-Michigan line for a novelty. He's had nothing but headaches since.

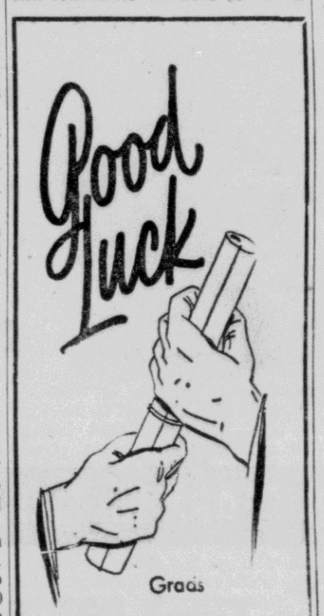

Two thirds of the house is in Michigan, the front third in Ohio.

So far, he's had to take out two building permits for the $34,000 house and is in a battle with the city of Toledo and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. to get water and gas.

The utilities claim it would be a violation of Interstate Commerce Commission rules to extend service to the house. Toledo Edison Co. agreed to provide electricity after Fleitz put a meter on the Ohio side of his house.

A future headache will be paying taxes in two states.

Ike's Highest-Priced Woman Aide Gives Political Advice

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dorothy McCullough Lee, chairman of the Subversive Activities Control Board, commands a salary of $20,000 a year and is the highest paid woman member of the Eisenhower administration. She advises women running for public office: "Keep your femininity."

"But develop immunity to personal criticism," she warns. "Don't take defeat at the polls as a personal failure. Men don't."

Out in Oregon, where her 28 years of public service began with a law practice in Portland and where she served 15 years in the state legislature and later as Portland's first woman mayor, she explained.

"If a man loses a race, he says the people of Oregon don't know what a splendid opportunity they lost by not electing him.

"Frankly," she added, "I approve of the man's point of view in this matter."

She would like to see more women run for public office. American women, she thinks, are not using their opportunities to the fullest in a great many cases.

Women's failure to advance in many fields, she says is primarily due to the fact they "have allowed themselves to become victims of a fear that their sensitive feelings might be bruised if they pushed out into less conventional fields."

Mrs. Lee, accompanied by her husband, an oil company executive, W. Scott Lee, and her two adopted children, David Scott Lee and Priscilla, came to Washington in 1953 when she was appointed to the U. S. Board of Parole. She joined the Subversive Activities Control Board in September, 1956.

Anyway, They Vote Where They Sleep

EAST JORDAN, Mich. (AP)—Tax assessors from two counties hold sort of a reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Arnold yearly.

They meet to determine how much the Arnolds owe Charlevoix and Antrim County because the couple sleep in Charlevoix County and generally live in the other. The assessors meet, divide up their portion of the small cottage, and present their respective tax bills.

But the Arnolds must vote in the county in which they sleep — Charlevoix.

You don't always spot the Big Shots at their government posts or on the party circuit.

Almost any fair day you might spy some of them on the tennis court, in shorts, yet! Gen. Alfred Gruenther, head of the American Red Cross; Cambodia's agile little ambassador, Nong Kimny; handsome Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla); Mrs. Paul Douglas, wife of the Democratic senator from Illinois, and Col. Bill Thompson, USMC, are just a few.

Economic Growth Seen for Nation

CLEVELAND (AP)—A prediction of continued economic growth in this country, comparable to the last 10 years, was made to 300 security analysts here by C. M. White, board chairman for Republic Steel Corp.

Optimism for the future is based on a number of developments expected to take place by 1965, White said. The developments are, he said, a population of 190 million; a work force of 76 million; a gross national product of $560 billion; capital expenditures in industry of about $50 billion annually; average yearly sales of 8 million automobiles and new construction volume reaching $65 billion.

Mining Firm Wins Fuss with Unions

COSHOCTON (AP) — The Simco-Peabody Coal Co. will be able to erect a huge new shovel at a strip mining operation near Conesville, five miles south of here, despite union protests.

Locals of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers of America; the International Assn. of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, and the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers, claimed the work should be done by their members.

Common Pleas Judge Lloyd S. Leech granted a restraining order to prevent the unions from interfering with the work carried out by employes of Simco-Peabody.

Prisoner Flees Jail Through 12-Inch Hole

MIDDLETOWN (AP)—Police Chief Joseph Blacmore described a man who escaped from the Middletown jail as "very small" and he must have been.

The chief said the man, listed as George Brown, 21, of Middletown, wriggled through a 12-inch space at the bottom of a jail window sash beneath the lowest bar.

Brown had been in the jail since May 11, serving out fines for drunkenness and resisting arrest.

Student from Holland Rotary Club Speaker

A 19-year-old girl from Holland entertained Rotarians and their guests Tuesday with her description of life in her native country as it compares with what she has observed in America.

The speaker was Miss Maaike van der Waals of Heemstede, Holland, an exchange student now enrolled at Wilmington College where she is studying social sciences.

Her hearers at the Country Club were unanimous in complimenting her for her attractive, vivacious and alert personality as well as for her remarkable grasp of the English language which during her talk was spiritedly reinforced with explanatory gestures which elicited from her audience gales of laughter.

* * *

SHE WAS presented by Ray Brandenburg of the May program committee. It was through an aunt, living in New York, that Miss Waals has been able to attend Wilmington College on a scholarship. Brandenburg pointed out that this was the first all male audience she had ever faced as a speaker, although she has appeared, before mixed audiences at Wilmington and in other places.

Miss Waals said that it had be an ambition of hers, since a very young girl to come to America and that she had not been disappointed in this country where many things were accomplished on so much larger a scale than was possible in Holland which she described as being only about one fourth the size of the state of Ohio.

She described with much vividness one of the great floods that Holland suffered and told how great help was given and many lives saved by U. S. helicopters sent from West Germany to aid relief work.

* * *

THE SPEAKER described the difference in farming in this country, where she said "there is so much waste land" and so many huge farms, while her own country farms on a more intensive basis on two to three acre tracts.

She praised her native country for its acres of flowers as compared with the small flower gardens she noticed here. She explained Holland's dairy methods and talked of the difference in schools, Christmas celebrations and the modes of more simple living in her country as compared with the "go, go, go" and "speed up" living she observed here. She expressed wonder at the number of "big automobiles" operated by nearly everybody, even down to school students while in her little country most people had to be satisfied with "bikes."

* * *

SHE EXHIBITED samples of wooden shoes, still used by many Hollanders, and a doll in traditional costume. She told of many customs of her country which, she said, does not enjoy the individual independence and freedom of personal activities so evident in the United States with its many more opportunities.

She made the statement that in America there are, however, more slums and much more talk of juvenile delinquency as well as more big headlines and "sensationalism" in newspapers. She laughingly declared "Holland newspapers do not try to make things seem bigger than they are."

* * *

MRS. ELIZABETH Yerian was introduced as the new Rotary pianist who is with the club during the absence of Mrs. Marion Gage.

Allen White and Howard Fogle were announced by President Lisk as an auditing committee for this year to check the treasury books.

Rotarian guests were Ted Malone of Colorado Springs, Col., Ed Milsom of Lancaster and William McCoy of Wilmington. Other guests were Robert Rowe of Springfield, with Fred Rost; Richard Brantigan, John Metzger and Cary Musser of Columbus, with Clarence Cooper; Dana Bryant of Cedarville with Dr. Fred D. Woollard.

ROMANCE OF THE SEA—The motion picture, "Boy on a Dolphin," based on David Devine's novel, opens Sunday at the Fayette Theater. It is the story of the discovery of the fabulous statue of a boy astride a dolphin, lost centuries ago in a sunken galleon in the Aegean Sea, by a Greek island girl skin diver. Sophia Loren co-stars with Alan Ladd and Clifton Webb.

Ohio Assembly Moves Through Many Bills

even though they do not qualify to vote on the state and local tickets, appears headed for the statewide ballot next November.

The Senate already has adopted the resolution. Three-fifths of the House must approve.

The House scheduled a vote on the proposed amendment today. If it goes on the ballot, a bare majority of those voting on the issue can make it a part of the constitution.

The House also votes today on a Senate-approved bill to create an air pollution laboratory in the State Health Department to aid cities in cleaning up impure atmospheres.

In other actions Tuesday, the House passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

Require the state to license and regulate cold storage warehouse, food freezing establishments and food, drug and cosmetics manufacturers and processors.

Transfer rest home licensing from the Welfare Department to the Health Department.

Authorize the natural resources director to contract with federal government for repair of Muskingum River locks and transfer them to Ohio.

The House refused to accept Senate amendments, opposed by juvenile judges and others, to require that court case worker reports on accused juveniles be made available to attorneys for the parents. The bill appears headed for a joint conference committee.

Regulate gas underground storage in coal mine areas.

Set up a state fund to help villages finance sewer and water improvements.

Create an Ohio board to negotiate with other states for reciprocity on fishing licenses such as now exists on auto licenses.

Create a state atomic energy advisory board.

One of the bills, if it is approved by Gov. O'Neill, would set up a special state fund for the aid of county and independent fairs. Financed by a one-half of one per cent increase in the "take out" on horse race wagering — from 14½ to 15 per cent—the fund would contribute $2,500 to each county fair in the state and up to $5,000 more to fairs which conduct harness racing and which agree to hold stake races for colts.

The other bill, passed without debate and without dissent, sets up a separate state insurance department. Under present law, the Commerce Department supervises the insurance business in Ohio. The new law sets up a department headed by a director with Cabinet rank.

The Senate passed, 18-13, with little hope of House concurrence, a bill banning labor-management contracts which require workers to retire at any given age. On a second roll call, Sen. Ed Witmer (D-Stark), who had remained silent on the first call, voted "yes" to pass the bill without a spare vote.

Blinded by Lights, Hits Parked Auto

Damage was to fenders, bumpers and a grill in a collision on W. Oak St., 100 ft. east of Main, at 10:15 p. m. Tuesday.

Lester J. Estle, of Jeffersonville, told police he was driving east on Oak St. when he was momentarily blinded by the undimmed headlights of an unidentified auto coming the other direction.

He pulled to the right side, he said, and the right front corner of his auto collided with the left rear fender and bumper of a parked auto belonging to Charles Wimer, 119 W. Oak St. No one was injured.

Community Support Gets Things Done

Medical Society Auxiliary To Resume Bridge Parties

A new series of "Vanishing Bridge Parties," sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Fayette County Medical Society, will start the first week in June, it was announced Tuesday.

Community support for the parties conducted by the auxiliary during the last five years has made possible donations in the amount of $2,961 to Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

* * *

THE DONATIONS have made these special projects possible:

(1) A five-ton air conditioner installed in the operating rooms of the local hospital. Cost: $2,000. (Air conditioning in the operating rooms is of great therapeutic value to the patient during surgery. With controlled temperatures in the operating room body fluid loss is decreased which is an important safety factor).

(2) A four-bed ward was furnished in the West Wing at a cost of $800. This ward is occupied by women patients.

(Since the opening of the West Wing in May 1953, there has been scarcely a day that one of these beds was unoccupied by patients).

(3) In 1954 a formula storage refrigerator was made possible for the maternity department from proceeds of the Vanishing Bridge Party. (This unit is large enough to store formulas for 24 babies in individual baskets. After the bottles, nipples, and formulas have been sterilized— good refrigeration is of extreme importance in protecting the new born babies from infection. It is the only safe way to store germ free formulas).

(4) Dictating equipment was increased by three machines for medical record use. (Good medical records are a safeguard to patients. The quality of medical care rendered to patients is judged by the medical record. The doctor spends hours dictating history, physical findings, operative procedures, X-ray interpretation, and progress of each patient's case day by day).

* * *

AUXILIARY members point out that every project undertaken by the organization has been with one thought only: Will it improve patient care and add to the patient's comfort by making these added facilities available to the hospital."

As one member of the auxiliary put it: "The women of this community are to be praised for their all-out support of the 'Vanishing Bridge Parties' which have made these improvements possible."

Officers of the 12 member auxiliary are: Mrs. N. M. Reiff, president; Mrs. James Rose, president-elect; Mrs. Byers Shaw, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Anderson, treasurer.

CINCINNATI (AP)—A. J. Brune, city elevator supervisor, says a broken worm gear shaft cut off the link between power and the drive mechanism of a Hotel Sheraton Gibson elevator Friday, causing it to crash. Twelve persons were injured in the accident.

Fighting Force Still 'Needed'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nuclear weapons may be effective in deterring global war, but Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, said at Town Hall Tuesday that the United States should keep strong fighting forces in all parts of the world where American and Soviet interests are in conflict.

"It is quite obvious," he said, "that in addition to deterring general atomic war we must design a military program which will deter aggressions short of general war, or suppress them quickly if deterrence fails."

Student from Holland Rotary Club Speaker

A 19-year-old girl from Holland entertained Rotarians and their guests Tuesday with her description of life in her native country as it compares with what she has observed in America.

Her hearers at the Country Club were unanimous in complimenting her for her attractive. vivacious and alert personality as well as for her remarkable grasp of the English language which during her talk was spiritedly reinforced with explanatory gestures which elicited from her audience gales of laughter.

* * *

SHE WAS presented by Ray Brandenburg of the May program committee. It was through an aunt, living in New York, that Miss Waals has been able to attend Wilmington College on a scholarship. Brandenburg pointed out that this was the first all male audience she had ever faced as a speaker, although she has appeared, before mixed audiences at Wilmington and in other places.

Miss Waals said that it had be an ambition of hers, since a very young girl to come to America and that she had not been disappointed in this country where many things were accomplished on so much larger a scale than was possible in Holland which she described as being only about one fourth the size of the state of Ohio.

She described with much vividness one of the great floods that Holland suffered and told how great help was given and many lives saved by U. S. helicopters sent from West Germany to aid relief work.

* * *

THE SPEAKER described the difference in farming in this country, where she said "there is so much waste land" and so many huge farms, while her own country farms on a more intensive basis on two to three acre tracts.

She praised her native country for its acres of flowers as compared with the small flower gardens she noticed here. She explained Holland's dairy methods and talked of the difference in schools, Christmas celebrations and the modes of more simple living in her country as compared with the "go, go, go" and "speed up" living she observed here. She expressed wonder at the number of "big automobiles" operated by nearly everybody, even down to school students while in her little country most people had to be satisfied with "bikes."

* * *

SHE EXHIBITED samples of wooden shoes, still used by many Hollanders, and a doll in traditional costume. She told of many customs of her country which, she said, does not enjoy the individual independence and freedom of personal activities so evident in the United States with its many more opportunities.

She made the statement that in America there are, however, more slums and much more talk of juvenile delinquency as well as more big headlines and "sensationalism" in newspapers. She laughingly declared "Holland newspapers do not try to make things seem bigger than they are."

* * *

MRS. ELIZABETH Yerian was introduced as the new Rotary pianist who is with the club during the absence of Mrs. Marion Gage.

Allen White and Howard Fogle were announced by President Lisk as an auditing committee for this year to check the treasury books.

Rotarian guests were Ted Malone of Colorado Springs, Col., Ed Milsom of Lancaster and William McCoy of Wilmington. Other guests were Robert Rowe of Springfield, with Fred Rost; Richard Brantigan, John Metzger and Cary Musser of Columbus, with Clarence Cooper; Dana Bryant of Cedarville with Dr. Fred D. Woollard.

ROMANCE OF THE SEA—The motion picture, "Boy on a Dolphin," based on David Devine's novel, opens Sunday at the Fayette Theater. It is the story of the discovery of the fabulous statue of a boy astride a dolphin, lost centuries ago in a sunken galleon in the Aegean Sea, by a Greek island girl skin diver. Sophia Loren co-stars with Alan Ladd and Clifton Webb.

Ohio Assembly Moves Through Many Bills

even though they do not qualify to vote on the state and local tickets, appears headed for the statewide ballot next November.

The Senate already has adopted the resolution. Three-fifths of the House must approve.

The House scheduled a vote on the proposed amendment today. If it goes on the ballot, a bare majority of those voting on the issue can make it a part of the constitution.

The House also votes today on a Senate-approved bill to create an air pollution laboratory in the State Health Department to aid cities in cleaning up impure atmospheres.

In other actions Tuesday, the House passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

Require the state to license and regulate cold storage warehouse, food freezing establishments and food, drug and cosmetics manufacturers and processors.

Transfer rest home licensing from the Welfare Department to the Health Department.

Authorize the natural resources director to contract with federal government for repair of Muskingum River locks and transfer them to Ohio.

The House refused to accept Senate amendments, opposed by juvenile judges and others, to require that court case worker reports on accused juveniles be made available to attorneys for the parents. The bill appears headed for a joint conference committee.

Regulate gas underground storage in coal mine areas.

Set up a state fund to help villages finance sewer and water improvements.

Create an Ohio board to negotiate with other states for reciprocity on fishing licenses such as now exists on auto licenses.

Create a state atomic energy advisory board.

One of the bills, if it is approved by Gov. O'Neill, would set up a special state fund for the aid of county and independent fairs. Financed by a one-half of one per cent increase in the "take out" on horse race wagering — from 14½ to 15 per cent—the fund would contribute $2,500 to each county fair in the state and up to $5,000 more to fairs which conduct harness racing and which agree to hold stake races for colts.

The other bill, passed without debate and without dissent, sets up a separate state insurance department. Under present law, the Commerce Department supervises the insurance business in Ohio. The new law sets up a department headed by a director with Cabinet rank.

The Senate passed, 18-13, with little hope of House concurrence, a bill banning labor-management contracts which require workers to retire at any given age. On a second roll call, Sen. Ed Witmer (D-Stark), who had remained silent on the first call, voted "yes" to pass the bill without a spare vote.

Blinded by Lights, Hits Parked Auto

Damage was to fenders, bumpers and a grill in a collision on W. Oak St., 100 ft. east of Main, at 10:15 p. m. Tuesday.

Lester J. Estle, of Jeffersonville, told police he was driving east on Oak St. when he was momentarily blinded by the undimmed headlights of an unidentified auto coming the other direction.

He pulled to the right side, he said, and the right front corner of his auto collided with the left rear fender and bumper of a parked auto belonging to Charles Wimer, 119 W. Oak St. No one was injured.

Community Support Gets Things Done

Medical Society Auxiliary To Resume Bridge Parties

A new series of "Vanishing Bridge Parties," sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Fayette County Medical Society, will start the first week in June, it was announced Tuesday.

Community support for the parties conducted by the auxiliary during the last five years has made possible donations in the amount of $2,961 to Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

* * *

THE DONATIONS have made these special projects possible:

(1) A five-ton air conditioner installed in the operating rooms of the local hospital. Cost: $2,000. (Air conditioning in the operating rooms is of great therapeutic value to the patient during surgery. With controlled temperatures in the operating room body fluid loss is decreased which is an important safety factor).

(2) A four-bed ward was furnished in the West Wing at a cost of $800. This ward is occupied by women patients.

(Since the opening of the West Wing in May 1953, there has been scarcely a day that one of these beds was unoccupied by patients).

(3) In 1954 a formula storage refrigerator was made possible for the maternity department from proceeds of the Vanishing Bridge Party. (This unit is large enough to store formulas for 24 babies in individual baskets. After the bottles, nipples, and formulas have been sterilized— good refrigeration is of extreme importance in protecting the new born babies from infection. It is the only safe way to store germ free formulas).

(4) Dictating equipment was increased by three machines for medical record use. (Good medical records are a safeguard to patients. The quality of medical care rendered to patients is judged by the medical record. The doctor spends hours dictating history, physical findings, operative procedures, X-ray interpretation, and progress of each patient's case day by day).

* * *

AUXILIARY members point out that every project undertaken by the organization has been with one thought only: Will it improve patient care and add to the patient's comfort by making these added facilities available to the hospital."

As one member of the auxiliary put it: "The women of this community are to be praised for their all-out support of the 'Vanishing Bridge Parties' which have made these improvements possible."

Officers of the 12 member auxiliary are: Mrs. N. M. Reiff, president; Mrs. James Rose, president-elect; Mrs. Byers Shaw, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Anderson, treasurer.

CINCINNATI (AP)—A. J. Brune, city elevator supervisor, says a broken worm gear shaft cut off the link between power and the drive mechanism of a Hotel Sheraton Gibson elevator Friday, causing it to crash. Twelve persons were injured in the accident.

Fighting Force Still 'Needed'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nuclear weapons may be effective in deterring global war, but Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, said at Town Hall Tuesday that the United States should keep strong fighting forces in all parts of the world where American and Soviet interests are in conflict.

"It is quite obvious," he said, "that in addition to deterring general atomic war we must design a military program which will deter aggressions short of general war, or suppress them quickly if deterrence fails."

18 Bloomingburg Seniors To Receive Diplomas Tonight

By this time tomorrow, the 10 boys and eight girls of Bloomingburg High School's senior class will have stepped over the threshhold into a new life.

They will leave their high school days behind when they clutch that diploma at tonight's commencement and walk out into the world as young men and women.

For some, the new life will bring college; for others, it will be the start of making their own way in the world.

The commencement will start at 8:15 p. m. in the auditorium of the school where most of them have spent the last four years in high school classes earning the diploma they will receive before they leave

* * *

FOLLOWING the piano prelude, "Liebesfreud," by Ann Craig, the 18 seniors will come down the aisle to the strains of the traditional processional, "Pomp and Circumstance."

Dr. Paul H. Elliott, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will deliver the invocation when the seniors are in their places and then the high school girls chorus will sing "Somewhere over the Rainbow," especially appropriate for the graduates who, within the hour, will be starting in quest of their own rainbow's end.

The climax of the high school careers of the 18 graduates in their caps and gowns will come when Gordon Cowdery, vice president of the Miami Trace Board of Education, hands them their diplomas and offers each of them congratulations and best wishes on behalf of the board, the faculty and the community.

* * *

PRINCIPAL G. H. Biddle will make the scholarship awards to the seniors, and Mrs. Elton B. Elliott, of the high school faculty, will make the awards to the eight graders who will be going into high school three months from now.

After the girls chorus sings "God Speaks to Me" Dr. Elliott will pronounce the benediction, and the graduates will file out while recessional, "March of the Priests," is played.

While a wave of sadness undoubtedly will come over the graduates, it will be tempered by many happy memories of the last 12 years, especially the last four spent in high school.

There will be the memories of the Junior - Senior Banquet and prom at the Country Club here when the theme was "Order of the Court" for the after - dinner program.

This was a clever skit by the juniors who brought seniors before the "judge," where their "crimes" of the past year were exposed.

During the "court" session, George Iden gave the class history; Marilyn Rhoads recited the class poem; Shirley Williams read the class will; and Brenda Emery gave the class prophesy.

Sentence was passed on the seniors by Principal Biddle in his role of "Judge."

* * *

THEN THERE also will be the memories of the senior play, "Half Past 'Teen," that was presented in the auditorium April 5.

Events of commencement week began to take on a more serious note last Sunday when the seniors made their first appearance in their caps and gowns for the baccalaureate service in the Methodist Church. The Rev. Herbert Ricketts, the pastor, delivered the sermon, which was directed to the class.

Ann Craig played "Largo," the prelude for the service before the class filed in singing "Lead On, O King Eternal."

Music was by a mixed instrumental quartet and the high school girls vocal ensemble.

After the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Ricketts, the class filed out singing "Holy, Holy, Holy."

* * *

The class will be all together once more before high school days are put behind completely. That will be for the nine-day trip to Washington, D. C., New York City and places of historic interest in the east.

The class motto is "We Finish; To Begin;" the colors, two-tone blue; and the flower, the American Beauty Rose.

* * *

Bloomingburg Seniors To Start Gala Eastern Trip June 2

Commencement tonight may be the climax to high school days for the 18 seniors at Bloomingburg High, but they all will be together again on June 2 for a trip to the nation's Capital, the country's biggest city and historic places in the East.

They will have two other big adventures on their trip— a train ride and a boat ride.

Few, if any of these 18 teenagers have ever been on a train for 15 hours or spent the night on a boat. In this age of smooth highways and fast cars, most travel is by automobile, regardless of distance. And, Ohio is a long way from big boats.

The seniors have accumulated between $1,800 and $2,000 during their last six years of school. They plan to spend it all on their trip.

* * *

THE MONEY has not come easily. They have given dinners for the public (with the help of their mothers), they have given two plays; they have had concessions at the basketball games and they have collected sales tax stamps for redemption.

As seniors they published the school annual, which always figures to net a profit. They have even cleaned the streets of Bloomingburg for a fee, which went into the treasury.

They started making, and saving, money when they got into the seventh grade and have been at it ever since.

Mrs. Elton B. Elliott of the school faculty will go along with them on their trip to give them the benefit of her experience gained as chaperone for many previous senior classes.

* * *

THEY WILL leave Columbus on a special Pennsylvania Railroad coach at 8 a. m. June 2 and, after a 15-hour ride, will arrive in Washington, D. C., at 11 o'clock that night. They will stay in the Hamilton Hotel.

The next day they will go on an hour bus tour of the Capital, stopping at the Supreme Court and Congressional Library. After lunch they will go to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and see the Iwo Jima statue in Arlington Cemetery before going to Mt. Vernon, Washington's home near Alexandria, Va. They will have the evening either to rest or see some of the sights of the city.

The next morning, they will see more of the sights in the capital and leave at noon for New York. That evening, they will be at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

* * *

THEY WILL take the subway —another adventure— to Rockefeller Center to see a stage spectacle their fourth night away from home and the next morning take a tour of the city, including a trip to the United Nations. Before they get back to the hotel, they will have an opportunity to go through an ocean liner. In the afternoon, they will take a yacht cruise around Manhattan.

Nothing has been arranged for the fifth day, which they may spend sightseeing and shopping until they leave by train for Philadelphia and Atlantic City, where they may put in the entire sixth day swimming, lying on the beach, shopping or bicycling.

They will go from Atlantic City back to Philadelphia and on to Baltimore the afternoon of the seventh day.

FROM BALTIMORE, they will go by boat to Norfolk, Va. They will have dinner and spend the night on the boat and the next day tour historic Williamsburg.

Another overnight boat trip will take them back to Baltimore for the return trip home. They will arrive in Columbus at 10 p. m. June 10— nine days after departure from home.

The transportation, lodgings and meals will all be paid out of the class treasury. But, they will dig into their own pockets to buy souvenirs or pay for any extra-curricular activities.

In the little town of Jerez, Spain, two of the best - remembered names are Benjamin Franklin and Washington Irving. These two famed Americans were among the first steady customers in the U. S. for the sherry produced by Jerez.

18 Bloomingburg Seniors To Receive Diplomas Tonight

By this time tomorrow, the 10 boys and eight girls of Bloomingburg High School's senior class will have stepped over the threshhold into a new life.

They will leave their high school days behind when they clutch that diploma at tonight's commencement and walk out into the world as young men and women.

For some, the new life will bring college; for others, it will be the start of making their own way in the world.

The commencement will start at 8:15 p. m. in the auditorium of the school where most of them have spent the last four years in high school classes earning the diploma they will receive before they leave.

* * *

FOLLOWING the piano prelude, "Liebesfreud," by Ann Craig, the 18 seniors will come down the aisle to the strains of the traditional processional, "Pomp and Circumstance."

Dr. Paul H. Elliott, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will deliver the invocation when the seniors are in their places and then the high school girls chorus will sing "Somewhere over the Rainbow," especially appropriate for the graduates who, within the hour, will be starting in quest of their own rainbow's end.

The climax of the high school careers of the 18 graduates in their caps and gowns will come when Gordon Cowdery, vice president of the Miami Trace Board of Education, hands them their diplomas and offers each of them congratulations and best wishes on behalf of the board, the faculty and the community.

* * *

PRINCIPAL G. H. Biddle will make the scholarship awards to the seniors, and Mrs. Elton B. Elliott, of the high school faculty, will make the awards to the eight graders who will be going into high school three months from now.

After the girls chorus sings "God Speaks to Me" Dr. Elliott will pronounce the benediction, and the graduates will file out while recessional, "March of the Priests," is played.

While a wave of sadness undoubtedly will come over the graduates, it will be tempered by many happy memories of the last 12 years, especially the last four spent in high school.

To the strains of the beloved old hymn, "Lead On, Oh King Eternal," 97 Washington C. H. boys and girls will march down the aisles of the high school auditorium Thursday night.

It will be their last trip down as high school students.

The 97 make up the 81st graduating class at the high school, representing boys and girls from every corner of Washington C. H. After 12 years, they are completing the most important educational hurdle of their young lives.

For all of them, it means the commencement of a new life: some will go on to college to study for special fields; others will go right out to make their way in the highly competitive modern world.

All the boys face the eventual prospect of military service, which may disrupt their future plans temporarily.

* * *

BUT THEY have had at least 12 years of virtually carefree and happy school days to tuck away in their minds, to be brought out from time to time for reminiscence and reflection.

What they have learned during those 12 years will go a long way towards determining what kind of a life they will have.

At the same time, commencement will mark the high point of a busy social whirl for the grads.

* * *

FIRST there was the senior breakfast, bright and early last Thursday morning at the Methodist Church, where most of them joined for a get-together under the auspices of the Methodist women.

Later that same morning, seniors presented the annual Class Day program to the high school. On the lighter side, the program featured the reading of the class history by Carolyn Crago and the class will by Eddie Jones.

A musical trio composed of Sarah Core, Judy Preston and Nancy Reno entertained. John Knedler, the class vice president, gave his farewell address, and the whole student body joined in the singing of the alma mater.

SENIORS donned their caps and gowns for the first time Sunday evening for the annual Baccalaureate service in the auditorium. It was the first time they had come to the full realization that they were approaching the end of their school days at WHS.

It was a solemn group of young men and women—no longer boys and girls—that marched slowly down the aisle, then listened with bowed heads as the Rev. Harold B. Twining of the First Baptist Church gave the invocation.

The whole congregation joined in singing "Faith of Our Fathers," after which the Rev. L. J. Poe of Grace Methodist Church gave the Scripture reading.

The high school chorus sang "The World Is a Light," an anthem, and the Rev. W. Neil Hand of the First Presbyterian Church delivered the class sermon, "Youth at Work."

The Rev. Mr. Twining offered the benediction. after which the class sang "Holy, Holy, Holy," as the recessional hymn.

* * *

A LIGHTER NOTE was injected into the solemnity on commencement week with class night in the school auditorium Tuesday. Class members and their families got together in the school auditorium for a evening of friendly reminiscence.

The organ prelude, "Meditation," was played by Paul Messerall. Nancy Reno brought lumps to the throats of many class members as she recounted the class history.

The class prophecy, furnishing wit and insight into the whole class, was read by Patricia Cutlip.

* * *

A MORE serious part of the program was the president's a farewell address, delivered by Sarah Core. The whole class closed with the Alma Mater, and the organist played the postlude, "Minuet."

With Wednesday to recuperate in between, the big night is set for Thursday—commencement, when the seniors will receive the diplomas that will provide tangible evidence of their years of high school education.

Nearly every member of the class will long remember the moment when the seniors, again in caps and gowns, march down the aisle to the tune of "Lead on O King Eternal."

The Rev. Don McMillin of the first Christian Church will offer the invocation, and Janis Gillen will play a piano solo, "Juba."

Dr. Samuel Marble, president of Wilmington College, will deliver the commencement address. The senior high ensemble will sing Sibelius' "Onward Ye Peopie."

John Trace, the principal who has guided the seniors through their four years of study, will present the class, and Superintendent W. A. Smith will present the long awaited diplomas.

The audience will join the seniors in the singing of the "Alma Mater."

The Rev. Mr. McMillin will offer the benediction. Organ postlude is to be "Chaconne," by Couperin.

* * *

WITH THE high point in solemnity behind them. seniors will reach the high point in merriment Friday evening at their annual class dance. Following an evening of dancing in the dimly-lit, gaily decorated bymnasium the seniors will go out to the Country Club, where the parents of the seniors will stage a grand all-night party.

SARAH CORE
CLASS PRESIDENT
TIED FOR FIRST HONORS

This party was originated several years ago, so that the young people might continue their revelry without going to night spots in distant cities.

Breakfast will close the party about sunrise. After that, the seniors of 1957 will go home as WHS alumni.

* * *

STUDENTS on the super honor roll include Sarah Core and Sandra Rose, both of whom have 4.000 averages; Linda Anderson with a 3.931 average; Ann Meriweather, 3.842; Nancy Reno, 3.833; Joan Jacobs, 3.818; Webb Ellis, 3.645; Judith Preston, 3.603 and Wilma Jo Brown, 3.548.

Wilmington President To Be WHS Speaker

Washington C. H. High School's commencement speaker was the youngest college president in America when he took over his present job.

Youthful, personable Dr. Samuel D. Marble was just 30 years old when he became president of Wilmington College, Wilmington, in the fall of 1947.

DR. SAMUEL MARBLE

Now, at 40, he has a formidable record of achievement in educational administration.

The commencement address will highlight Thursday's graduation program.

* * *

A NATIVE of South Dakota and a member of the Society of Friends (Quakers), as well as the American Friends Service Committee, Dr. Marble did his undergraduate work at the University of New Mexico. He received his Master of Arts and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees in political science from the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University.

In addition, he has taken special training in international administration at Columbia University.

Coming to Wilmington from West Virginia Wesleyan College where he was professor of political science, Dr. Marble previously served as assistant to the dean of men at Syracuse University and as procedural analyst for the Federal Office of Civilian Supply.

During World War II he served with the American Friends Service Committee, organizing and directing a program to train workers for foreign posts with the committee.

* * *

AS ASSOCIATE secretary of the Foreign Service Section, he directed relief work in Japan and Korea, and served as chairman of all licensed agencies doing relief work in Asia.

At Wilmington College, Dr. Marble has won wide recognition for his accomplishments in expanding the building program through the "self-help" plan, which attracted students, faculty members and industrial firms to volunteer work, materials and money for five major campus building efforts.

Dr. and Mrs. Marble have three young daughters, Peggy, Anne and Becky.

At the same time, commencement will mark the high point of a busy social whirl for the grads.

* * *

FIRST there was the senior breakfast, bright and early last Thursday morning at the Methodist Church, where most of them joined for a get-together under the auspices of the Methodist women.

Later that same morning, seniors presented the annual Class Day program to the high school. On the lighter side, the program featured the reading of the class history by Carolyn Crago and the class will by Eddie Jones.

A musical trio composed of Sarah Core, Judy Preston and Nancy Reno entertained. John Knedler, the class vice president, gave his farewell address, and the whole student body joined in the singing of the alma mater.

SENIORS donned their caps and gowns for the first time Sunday evening for the annual Baccalaureate service in the auditorium. It was the first time they had come to the full realization that they were approaching the end of their school days at WHS.

It was a solemn group of young men and women—no longer boys and girls—that marched slowly down the aisle, then listened with bowed heads as the Rev. Harold B. Twining of the First Baptist Church gave the invocation.

The whole congregation joined in singing "Faith of Our Fathers," after which the Rev. L. J. Poe of Grace Methodist Church gave the Scripture reading.

The high school chorus sang "The World Is a Light," an anthem, and the Rev. W. Neil Hand of the First Presbyterian Church delivered the class sermon, "Youth at Work."

* * *

A LIGHTER NOTE was injected into the solemnity on commencement week with class night in the school auditorium Tuesday. Class members and their families got together in the school auditorium for a evening of friendly reminiscence.

The organ prelude, "Meditation," was played by Paul Messerall. Nancy Reno brought lumps to the throats of many class members as she recounted the class history.

The class prophecy, furnishing wit and insight into the whole class, was read by Patricia Cutlip.

* * *

A MORE serious part of the program was the president's a farewell address, delivered by Sarah Core. The whole class closed with the Alma Mater, and the organist played the postlude, "Minuet."

With Wednesday to recuperate in between, the big night is set for Thursday—commencement, when the seniors will receive the diplomas that will provide tangible evidence of their years of high school education.

Nearly every member of the class will long remember the moment when the seniors, again in caps and gowns, march down the aisle to the tune of "Lead on O King Eternal."

The Rev. Don McMillin of the first Christian Church will offer the invocation, and Janis Gillen will play a piano solo, "Juba."

Dr. Samuel Marble, president of Wilmington College, will deliver the commencement address. The senior high ensemble will sing Sibelius' "Onward Ye Peopie."

John Trace, the principal who has guided the seniors through their four years of study, will present the class, and Superintendent W. A. Smith will present the long awaited diplomas.

The audience will join the seniors in the singing of the "Alma Mater."

Wilmington President To Be WHS Speaker

DR. SAMUEL MARBLE

Now, at 40, he has a formidable record of achievement in educational administration.

The commencement address will highlight Thursday's graduation program.

A NATIVE of South Dakota and a member of the Society of Friends (Quakers), as well as the American Friends Service Committee, Dr. Marble did his undergraduate work at the University of New Mexico. He received his Master of Arts and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees in political science from the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University.

In addition, he has taken special training in international administration at Columbia University.

Coming to Wilmington from West Virginia Wesleyan College where he was professor of political science, Dr. Marble previously served as assistant to the dean of men at Syracuse University and as procedural analyst for the Federal Office of Civilian Supply.

During World War II he served with the American Friends Service Committee, organizing and directing a program to train workers for foreign posts with the committee.

AS ASSOCIATE secretary of the Foreign Service Section, he directed relief work in Japan and Korea, and served as chairman of all licensed agencies doing relief work in Asia.

At Wilmington College, Dr. Marble has won wide recognition for his accomplishments in expanding the building program through the "self-help" plan, which attracted students, faculty members and industrial firms to volunteer work, materials and money for five major campus building efforts.

Dr. and Mrs. Marble have three young daughters, Peggy, Anne and Becky.

Wayne High School Commencement at Good Hope Friday

The 19 seniors of Wayne High School at Good Hope will be high schoolers no more after Friday night.

That's the time when the group marks the end to 12 years of hard work and study—the night when they get their high school diplomas from their principal, Harold Thomas, in the Good Hope Methodist Church.

Actually, activities started a couple of weeks ago on May 10, when the annual junior-senior banquet and dance was held. That lighter part of the proceedings was the prelude to the more solemn baccalaureate program held last Sunday and the ultimate commencement, scheduled Friday night.

• • •

The Rev. Ralph Yoss offered the invocation for th eevent, before all the juniors and seniors sat down to a steak dinner. The junior class president, Gary Brown, offered the welcome, and Nancy Sollars, the senior president, gave the response.

The class history was read by Nancy Sollars, while Peggy Riley read the poem, Jackie Lee Hoppes the prophecy and Ronnie Geesling, the will. The Optimist's Report was delivered by Arthur Deakyne, while Barbara Sue Kneisley reported for the Pessimists.

• • •

SUNDAY NIGHT, the seniors opened their solemn baccalaureate service with the singing of 'Lead on O King Eternal." and "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The Rev. Mr. Yoss offered the invocation, and the junior high ensemble sang "The Stately Mansion," a German folk song.

The Rev. Mr. Yoss read from the Scriptures and delivered a sermon. "Burden Down," a spiritual, was sung by the mixed chorus, as was "American Hymn," and Simeone's "Benediction."

The chorus closed the program with the singing of 'Day Is Dying in the West."

• • •

FRIDAY NIGHT, the greatest moment of all for the seniors will come when George Garinger sounds the first chords of "Pomp and Circumstance," in the Good Hope Methodist Church. The seniors' final ceremony will be underway.

The girls' chorus is to open the program with the singing of "The Prayer Perfect." After that, Alexander More, Wayne history teacher, will present eighth grade certificates and awards.

Richard J. Anderson of Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus will deliver the commencement address.

Madison Mills Seniors To Go East on Trip

Thirteen of the 15 seniors of Madison Mills High School will start out June 2 on what, undoubtedly, will be a new adventure for most, if not all, of them.

That is the day they leave Columbus at 8 a. m. by Pennsylvania Railroad train for Washington, D. C., the nation's seat of government; New York City, the biggest city in the country; and places of historic interest in the east.

The trip is a part of their education; it might well be called a post - graduate course in history and government. For they will see, not only the heart of their government in operation, but also the places where much history of their country was made.

For many of them, the overnight train ride will be a new experience; some of them have never even been on a train in this day and age of automobile travel, regardless of distance.

* * *

WHAT'S MORE, this will be a part of their education for which they will pay themselves. They started four years ago, when they entered school as freshmen, to make and save money as a class, for this traditional senior trip.

They gave dinners, with the help of their mothers; they put on plays, they published their school annual; they worked at concessions at school sports events and carried out other projects.

When they came to the end of the high school days, they had a little more than $900— and it is all to be spent on the trip.

It is a post-graduate course, because they all will have their high school diplomas safely put away at home. It will be the last time they are all together as a class.

* * *

WITH ROBERT HINCHMAN, a member of the faculty, and Mrs. Hinchman for chaperones, the 13 ex-seniors of Madison Mills High School will arrive early the morning of June 3 in Washington, D. C., after spending the night on the train.

No time will be wasted; they will start right out on a sight-seeing tour of the city. Stops will be made at several of the more important places, including the National Cemetery, where they will see the grave of the Unknown Soldier.

Later they will take the boat down the Potomac to Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington.

They will arrive in New York on June 5, where they will go on another sight - seeing tour, including Rockefeller Center and the United Nations. An effort will be made to take in one of the television shows, but it is still uncertain whether this can be worked into the schedule.

The itinerary also calls for a boat ride around Manhattan, the most densely populated island in the world, as well as a visit to the Statue of Liberty.

* * *

AFTER TWO DAYS in New York, they will go to Atlantic City, with its famous board walk and beach, both steeped in romance and glamour. They may even get a chance to take a dip in the salt water of the Atlantic Ocean.

Two days later, they will start back home, arriving in Columbus on June 9— with a better conception of their government, the history of their country and vivid memories of some big cities, such as Washington, New York and Philadelphia.

While the basic expenses of the trip will be paid out of their four-year savings, they will have to go into their own personal savings for the souvenirs they are certain to bring back to their families and friends—and for their own memory chests.

New Holland Seniors Heading for Florida

The New Holland Class of 1957 is Florida-bound.

A majority of the seniors will leave Friday by automobile for Florida, visiting points of interest through the South while en route to the Sunshine State.

Included in the itinerary will be Lookout Mountain in Tennessee, Cypress Gardens, Marineland and Silver Springs, all in Florida.

Chaperones will be Robert Melick, high school principal and coach; Mrs. Melick and Mrs. James Wagner, music teacher.

Superintendent Kenneth Craig, who accompanied senior classes on their trips for seven straight years, wasn't able to make the trip last year and will remain at home again this year.

AND HOW MUCH money will they have? About $900.

The class started building up its travel chest four years ago through concessions at school affairs, bake sales, a talent show and a little profit from the school annual published by the class the last year.

When time came to plan the trip, there was around $1,500 in the treasury—but $600 of that had to be set aside to take care of expenses for the annual. That left $900 for the trip, Supt. Craig explained.

But that $900 will take 11 of the 13 seniors farther than might appear at first on the surface; for it will go only for the transportation, lodgings and the sight-seeing trips taken by the whole calss.

The students will have to pay for their own meals, the souvenirs they want to bring back and any special entertainment they may want to take in.

* *

SUPT. CRAIG estimated that a student on a strict economy basis could make the trip for around $15, but said "it could be made nicely for $20 or $25. . .although some of them, of course, will spend a lot more than that."

This year's class decided to pass up the trip to Washington, D. C., and some of the historic places in that area and, instead, elected to see the country's winter playground.

All of the travelers are looking forward to absorbing some sun on the Florida beaches and breasting the breakers of the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico.

He completed a commercial on a sale of rose bushes, then casually added "and if you ladies buy some of these rose bushes and can't get your husbands to plant them, Ol' Lover John will come out and plant them for you."

The phone started ringing and Morris was busy the following Sunday planting rose bushes around town.

All he had to say was: "We sure have got a bunch of lazy husbands around here."

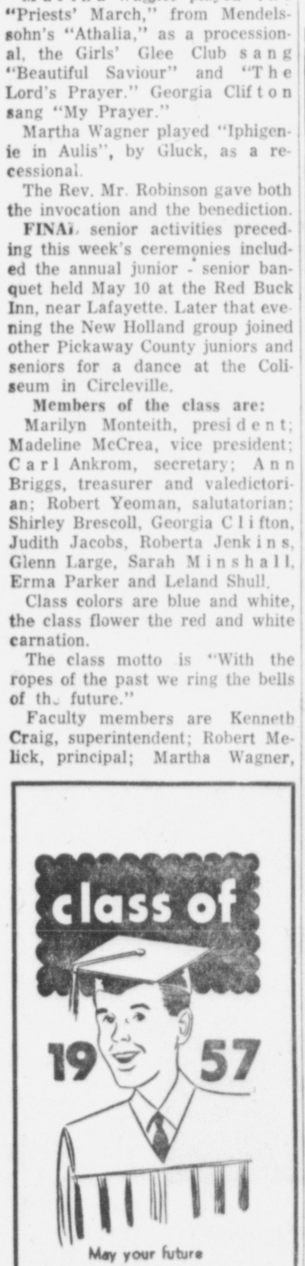

For some 250 years after the first lottery was held in the United States, in 1614, it was a major method of raising money for churches and colleges and for the building of roads and other public works.

Pensioner Quits Retirement At 83, Starts New Business

Benjamin Alexander and his furniture store.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON — In an era when some men retire before they are 50, Benjamin Alexander is an anachronism. At 83 he has come out of retirement and begun life anew in business. He has taken his entire life's savings, $500 and used it to open and stock his O-K Used Furniture company.

The very first thing he did after opening his store was to write the Social Security office and tell it to stop sending his monthly pension checks.

Why did the octogenarian leave retirement, a state to which most people aspire? Because, he said, he was tired of loafing.

Well, he got fed up, he added, when the government deducted his part-time earnings from his Social Security benefit. He called it the government's "monthly insult." It came to $78.78.

* * *

SINCE HE was too old to get a full-time job, he decided to open his own business.

"It was like walking out of hell into heaven", he said. "Now I'm standing here with $25 in my pocket—every cent of it I earned myself. No more pension fellows coming around saying, "Why don't you get a smaller room, Mr. Alexander?""

Alexander's tiny shop isn't exactly a gold mine. He didn't make enough last winter to heat his store, so he wore a camel's hair overcoat to work. However, for Alexander's needs, it serves "right good."

* * *

HOW DOES Alexander make a living? "Well," said the aged businessman, "twice a week I walk to the auction house. I buy all my things there. Never had a day in court for buying stolen property. However, I've known some guys," he remarked, "as crooked as that." He hooked a wrinkled finger as he spoke.

Then he pointed to a rickety chair in the back of his shop.

"You see that chair upside down over there?" he asked. "It cost me a quarter. I buy five or six in a set and fix two or three good ones from them. They'll sell for a dollar and a half each."

After he retired in 1947—at the age of 73—he worked at two temporary jobs. These enabled him to save the money he used to open up his shop.

"My friends tried to talk me out of it," he remarked. "But they didn't know how it was on a pension."

Retired Pastor Still Flies at 101

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—One of very few centenarian plane travelers is Rev. James F. Davidson of Seville, who will be 102 Aug. 5. He arrived Tuesday night from Corona, Calif. to spend the summer with his son Henry, a Barberton high school teacher.

He had wintered with a daughter, Mrs. Fannie Andrews, in Corona. A native of Guernsey County, the Rev. Mr. Davidson retired in 1921 when he was pastor of the United Brethren Church at Sterling, Ohio. He has another son, George M. Davidson of Canton, and another daughter, Mrs. Elsie Blatter of Newark, Ohio.

3 Post Doctoral Scholarships OKd By Ohio State

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University has announced awards of three post doctoral scholarships.

Dean Everett Walters of OSU's Graduate School said the awards were for use during the 1957-58 academic year.

The university's post doctoral scholarship of $3,600 was awarded to Dr. James E. Christoph, Columbus, an instructor in the Political Science Department.

Water Diversion Bill OK Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading sponsor of a bill to permit Chicago to divert more water from Lake Michigan thinks President Eisenhower will sign the measure. Similar bills were vetoed by Eisenhower in 1954 and 1956.

"I know the bill is going to be passed by Congress," Rep. O'Brien (D-Ill) said. "I think the President will sign it this time."

The bill would increase the amount of water Chicago can divert from the lake into the Illinois Waterway from 1,500 cubic feet a second to 2,500 for the next three years. Congressmen from Wisconsin and Ohio have led the fight against the measure.

Pensioner Quits Retirement At 83, Starts New Business

Benjamin Alexander and his furniture store.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON — In an era when some men retire before they are 50, Benjamin Alexander is an anachronism. At 83 he has come out of retirement and begun life anew in business. He has taken his entire life's savings, $500 and used it to open and stock his O-K Used Furniture company.

The very first thing he did after opening his store was to write the Social Security office and tell it to stop sending his monthly pension checks.

Why did the octogenarian leave retirement, a state to which most people aspire? Because, he said, he was tired of loafing.

Well, he got fed up, he added, when the government deducted his part-time earnings from his Social Security benefit. He called it the government's "monthly insult." It came to $78.78.

* * *

SINCE HE was too old to get a full-time job, he decided to open his own business.

"It was like walking out of hell into heaven", he said. "Now I'm standing here with $25 in my pocket—every cent of it I earned myself. No more pension fellows coming around saying, "Why don't you get a smaller room, Mr. Alexander?""

Alexander's tiny shop isn't exactly a gold mine. He didn't make enough last winter to heat his store, so he wore a camel's hair overcoat to work. However, for Alexander's needs, it serves "right good."

* * *

HOW DOES Alexander make a living? "Well," said the aged businessman, "twice a week I walk to the auction house. I buy all my things there. Never had a day in court for buying stolen property. However, I've known some guys," he remarked, "as crooked as that." He hooked a wrinkled finger as he spoke.

Then he pointed to a rickety chair in the back of his shop.

"You see that chair upside down over there?" he asked. "It cost me a quarter. I buy five or six in a set and fix two or three good ones from them. They'll sell for a dollar and a half each."

Alexander is not new to the furniture business. In his long life he owned four other furniture stores.

After he retired in 1947—at the age of 73—he worked at two temporary jobs. These enabled him to save the money he used to open up his shop.

Retired Pastor Still Flies at 101

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—One of very few centenarian plane travelers is Rev. James F. Davidson of Seville, who will be 102 Aug. 5. He arrived Tuesday night from Corona, Calif. to spend the summer with his son Henry, a Barberton high school teacher.

He had wintered with a daughter, Mrs. Fannie Andrews, in Corona. A native of Guernsey County, the Rev. Mr. Davidson retired in 1921 when he was pastor of the United Brethren Church at Sterling, Ohio. He has another son, George M. Davidson of Canton, and another daughter, Mrs. Elsie Blatter of Newark, Ohio.

3 Post Doctoral Scholarships OKd By Ohio State

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University has announced awards of three post doctoral scholarships.

Dean Everett Walters of OSU's Graduate School said the awards were for use during the 1957-58 academic year.

The university's post doctoral scholarship of $3,600 was awarded to Dr. James P. Christoph, Columbus, an instructor in the Political Science Department.

Water Diversion Bill OK Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading sponsor of a bill to permit Chicago to divert more water from Lake Michigan thinks President Eisenhower will sign the measure. Similar bills were vetoed by Eisenhower in 1954 and 1956.

"I know the bill is going to be passed by Congress," Rep. O'Brien (D-Ill) said. "I think the President will sign it this time."

The bill would increase the amount of water Chicago can divert from the lake into the Illinois Waterway from 1,500 cubic feet a second to 2,500 for the next three years. Congressmen from Wisconsin and Ohio have led the fight against the measure.

Ready for College

MARY JO REIFF

Miss Mary Jo Reiff, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Reiff, 404 Rawlings St., who began her public school education with the Washington High School Class of 1957, will receive her high school diploma at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., Saturday.

Miss Reiff will enter Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, in the fall as a sophomore since she was able to complete a part of her college credits along with her high school subjects.

She attended Washington C. H. High School for three years, entering Stephens last fall. She is specializing in fashion design and hopes to enter the TV field.

Stephens Graduate

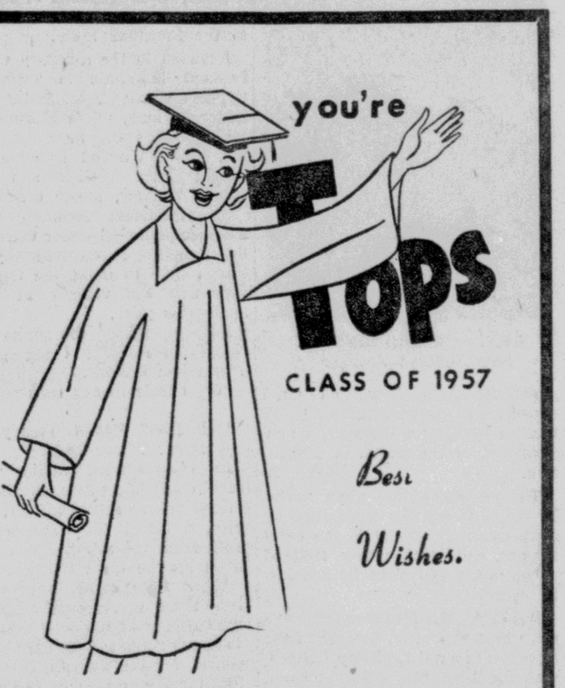

MARY WATERS

MISS MARY WATERS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Waters, 736 Washington Ave., will receive her associate in arts degree from Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., May 28. She graduated from Washington C. H., High School in 1955 and is now completing her two-year college course. She also will have the distinction of riding in the horse show, which is one of the features of commencement at Stephens College. Her mother said Miss Waters had no definite plans for the future, but that she will come back home with her parents after the commencement.

Kenny Lane Faces Unknown in Bout

DETROIT (AP) — An unranked Philadelphia lightweight who has not fought in six months will be out tonight to puncture Kenny Lane's ambition of becoming the first southpaw champion in lightweight history.

This will be Brown's first appearance since he broke his right hand dropping an eight - round knockout verdict to Paolo Rosi last November. But Brown has shown he can punch effectively with either hand. His 24 victories include 14 knockouts. He has lost four times and had two draws.

Hank Bauer Is Accused Of Assault

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Bauer, the New York Yankee outfielder, was arrested Tuesday for felonious assault, the result of a night-club brawl early last Thursday. He was released in custody of his lawyer.

Bauer will get a hearing on June 21 on the complaint by delicatessen owner Edwin Jones, who claims he was beat up by the ball player during the fracas.

Bauer's lawyer, Sidney Friedman, pointed out that Bauer was fingerprinted, mugged and arraigned in felony court as a result of a "citizen's arrest."

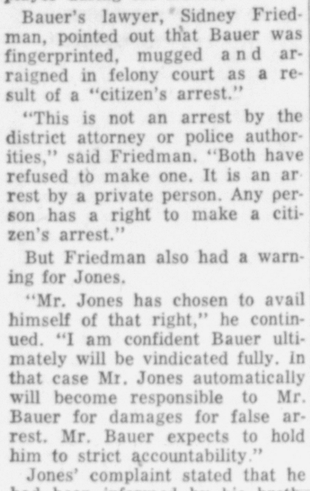

"This is not an arrest by the district attorney or police authorities," said Friedman. "Both have refused to make one. It is an arrest by a private person. Any person has a right to make a citizen's arrest."

But Friedman also had a warning for Jones.

"Mr. Jones has chosen to avail himself of that right," he continued. "I am confident Bauer ultimately will be vindicated fully. in that case Mr. Jones automatically will become responsible to Mr. Bauer for damages for false arrest. Mr. Bauer expects to hold him to strict accountability."

Jones' complaint stated that he had been informed by his brother, Leonard, and his nephew Phil Esposito, that Bauer had slugged him in the night club.

The Jones party was celebrating the end of their bowling season, while Bauer and several teammates were observing infielder Billy Martin's 29th birthday.

May great achievements reward your future efforts.

Harness Horse Registrations Show Increase

COLUMBUS—If applications for racing papers continue at the present rate, there will be 25 per cent more harness horses racing this year than in 1956, the U.S. Trotting Association says.

The USTA, parent body of the harness racing sport, has processed 12,051 applications for racing papers since the first of the year. During the same period in 1956, a total of 9,.82 applications were received. The numerical increase is 2,299.

Once again it appears that pacers will outnumber the trotters. 5,928 pacers against 3,824 for trotters.

About 85 per cent of the horses for whom papers are issued actually get to the races. There were 14,622 horses that started in 1956.

Chisox Winnings Make Lopez Look Like a Prophet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago White Sox, with an eight-game winning streak, a two-game lead in the American League race and their first triumph over the New York Yankees, are making manager Al Lopez look like a first class prophet.

Before Tuesday night's game at Yankee Stadium, the smiling senior declared:

"The Yankees can be beaten and we're one of four teams that can do it. I think we have the pitching, speed, defense and sufficient hitting to win."

It's a long way to October but Lopez has nothing to apologize for today. His White Sox are three games in front of the Yankees, whom they whipped 3-1 Tuesday night and dumped into third place, a game behind Cleveland. The Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox 8-2 in an afternoon game.

Detroit's fourth place Tigers took a sizzling 16-inning 2-1 thriller from Baltimore to advance to within two games of the Yankees. In another American League game Washington shut out Kansas City 3-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Camilo Pascual.

The Brooklyn Dodgers whipped Cincinnati 6-1 to tie Milwaukee for second place in the National League, a game and a half behind the front-running Redlegs. Rain ended the Braves-Philadelphia game with the score tied at 1-1 after 5½ innings. The game will be replayed.

Chicago won its first home game in nine starts, coming from behind to score two unearned runs in the ninth to beat the New York Giants 4-3. Rain postponed the game between Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

Billy Pierce, ace White Sox southpaw, handcuffed the Yankees with four hits and struck out eight to post his sixth victory against two defeats. Billy did not permit a hit after the fourth inning, when the Yanks scored their lone run.

Chicago got six hits off loser Whitey Ford, first of three New York pitchers. Two of them accounted for all their runs. After Larry Doby drew a one out walk and second baseman Bobby Richardson dropped a throw on Jim Landis force play grounder, Jim Rivera singled in one run, Bubba Phillips squeezed in another and Pierce drove in the third with his second single.

Reno Bertia's single in the 16th scored pitcher Paul Foytack with the run that gave Detroit its 4½ hour victory over Baltimore. Foytack, who relieved starter Jim Bunning in the 14th opened with a single and advanced to second on catcher Joe Ginsberg's passed ball. Ray Moore pitched the first 1 innings for the Orioles and allowed only eight hits. Mike Fornieles, who took over in the 16th was charged with the defeat.

Lou Berberet's sixth inning homer, the first Washington hit off Kansas City pitcher Rinold Duren, was the big blow as the Senators' won their second straight. It was the second shutout by a Washington pitcher in 203 games.

Carl Neeman's single with two out in the ninth gave the Cubs their first Wrigley Field victory this year. Two infield errors, a walk and Jack Littrell's single had tied the score.

Mays accounted for two New York runs with his fifth homer and a steal of home. The loser Stu Miller who permitted only three hits in 8 2-3 innings. Turk Lown, who relieved starter Dick Drott in the ninth, was the winner.

Capture of More Whooping Cranes Object of New Study

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The whooping crane maternity watch at the Audubon Park Zoo in New Orleans the past few days calls timely attention to the proposal of a Canadian authority on the birds: should four of the remaining 24 wild whoopers be captured in an effort to perpetuate the species in captivity?

At New Orleans, Crip and Jo hatched out one chick Saturday. Their second egg hatched out Tuesday.

For those migratory bird experts who have just about given up on the chances of saving the whooping crane as a wild bird but think they ought to have a chance to save it by pen breeding, this is an opportune time to state their case.

Dr. Fred G. Bard, director of Natural History, believes that the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History, believes that saving a live, remnant flock of the giant travelers for as long as possible is worth the time and trouble.

Dr. Bard first put forth the idea of capturing two pairs of whoopers for captive management some time ago, and thus brought on a considerable international discussion over the relative merits of "relics" alive in a pen or stuffed in a museum.

On the basis of the latest complete tabulation of the world's last remaining whoopers, Dr. Bard has renewed his proposal in letters to the official and cooperative observers along the "whooper network," the 2,000-mile stretch from northern Canada to Arkansas refuge on the Texas Gulf Coast that makes up the birds' migration route.

The world population of grown birds now stands at 27. Of these, the wild flock now on the nesting grounds in the great slave country number 24, one wayfarer weary of travel is in the San Antonio, Texas, zoo, and the Audubon Park Zoo has Jo and Crip, who've tried their best the last couple of years to hatch out some support for the captive school of thought. So far, though, they haven't raised a child past childhood.

Redleg Bench Fails To Give Needed Punch

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Redleg brass were jubilant over the team's "good bench" when the season started, but those highly-touted reserves have at last muffed a big test.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts inserted three usually productive pinch-hitters in Tuesday night's game, but none could help as Brooklyn trimmed the Reds, 6-1.

The Dodgers smacked a dozen safeties off three Redleg hurlers, including two-run homers by Pee Wee Reese and Sandy Amoros.

Boston Press Box Still Bans Ladies

BOSTON (AP)—Ladies, take heed. The baseball press box will remain a male sanctuary—in Boston, at least.

A vote of the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. Tuesday denied Doris O'Donnell of the Cleveland News admission to the Fenway Park press box to cover the Indians-Red Sox game.

Billy Kinard OKs Green Bay Contract

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Billy Kinard, a halfback acquired from the Cleveland Browns in a trade, has signed his 1957 National Football League contract with the Green Bay Packers, coach Lisle Blackburn said today.

Kinard is the fourth man acquired in the Cleveland trade to come to terms with the Packers.

Wynn Wins, But Is Far From a Feller

BOSTON (AP)—Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians has won more games than any other pitcher currently active in the major leagues. But he still has a long way to go before topping the lifetime record of former teammate Bob Feller.

Feller ended his major league career in 1956 with 266 victories in the 18 seasons he hurled for the Indians.

Wynn, in his 17th major league season, posted his 226th victory by defeating the Boston Red Sox 8-2 at Fenway Park Tuesday. It was his fifth victory against three losses this year.

He limited the Red Sox to seven hits and struck out eight. The Indians collected 12 hits off Dave Sisler, Bob Porterfield and Rudy Minarcin.

It was an unfortunate day for Boston shortstop Billy Klaus. He made three errors in one inning, ended a Red Sox scoring chance by hitting into a double play with the bases loaded and got hit in the eye by a ground ball that took a bad hop. Although not seriously injured, he suffered a painful black eye and will be on the sidelines for the next few days.

After today's game with the Red Sox, the Tribe returns to Cleveland Friday night for a four-game series with Chicago.

Cincinnati Realtor Gets Group's Award

Schmidt, real estate dealer and civic leader, for "promoting amicable understanding and friendliness among different religious and racial groups." The award was made Tuesday night.

Long, Hard Trek Faces Red Runners

TOKYO (AP)—It's going to be a long, hard summer for Communist athletes in Asia.

North Korea's Pyongyang Radio today announced plans for an international relay race from Pyongyang, through Red China and Mongolia to Moscow.

That's 4,500 miles in a straight line through some of the most rugged terrain in the world. Chinese roads don't run in straight lines. And there aren't any roads in Mongolia.

The broadcast said relay teams will carry a baton with flags from the four countries concerned, and letters addressed to the nation's youth.

The win brought the Dodgers to a tie for second place with the Milwaukee Braves, 1½ games back of the league-leading Reds.

The Dodgers smacked a dozen safeties off three Redleg hurlers, including two-run homers by Pee Wee Reese and Sandy Amoros.

Boston Press Box Still Bans Ladies

BOSTON (AP)—Ladies, take heed. The baseball press box will remain a male sanctuary—in Boston, at least.

A vote of the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. Tuesday denied Doris O'Donnell of the Cleveland News admission to the Fenway Park press box to cover the Indians-Red Sox game.

Billy Kinard OKs Green Bay Contract

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Billy Kinard, a halfback acquired from the Cleveland Browns in a trade, has signed his 1957 National Football League contract with the Green Bay Packers, coach Lisle Blackburn said today.

Kinard is the fourth man acquired in the Cleveland trade to come to terms with the Packers.

Wynn Wins, But Is Far From a Feller

BOSTON (AP)—Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians has won more games than any other pitcher currently active in the major leagues. But he still has a long way to go before topping the lifetime record of former teammate Bob Feller.

Feller ended his major league career in 1956 with 266 victories in the 18 seasons he hurled for the Indians.

Wynn, in his 17th major league season, posted his 226th victory by defeating the Boston Red Sox 8-2 at Fenway Park Tuesday. It was his fifth victory against three losses this year.

He limited the Red Sox to seven hits and struck out eight. The Indians collected 12 hits off Dave Sisler, Bob Porterfield and Rudy Minarcin.

It was an unfortunate day for Boston shortstop Billy Klaus. He made three errors in one inning, ended a Red Sox scoring chance by hitting into a double play with the bases loaded and got hit in the eye by a ground ball that took a bad hop. Although not seriously injured, he suffered a painful black eye and will be on the sidelines for the next few days.

Cincinnati Realtor Gets Group's Award

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati chapter, National Conference of Christians and Jews, has given its annual award to Walter S. Schmidt, real estate dealer and civic leader, for "promoting amicable understanding and friendliness among different religious and racial groups." The award was made Tuesday night.

Long, Hard Trek Faces Red Runners

TOKYO (AP)—It's going to be a long, hard summer for Communist athletes in Asia.

North Korea's Pyongyang Radio today announced plans for an international relay race from Pyongyang, through Red China and Mongolia to Moscow.

That's 4,500 miles in a straight line through some of the most rugged terrain in the world. Chinese roads don't run in straight lines. And there aren't any roads in Mongolia.

The broadcast said relay teams will carry a baton with flags from the four countries concerned, and letters addressed to the nation's youth.

LOGAN (AP)—The Logan School Board has appointed Mel Adams, 29, football coach at Martins Ferry High School for two years, as the new football coach at Logan High School.

Adams will succeed Al Scrivner, who resigned. He was selected from 60 applicants for the job. Scrivner had coached the local school for three years. Adams, a native of Oak Hill and a graduate of Rio Grande College, coached at South Shore and Paris, Ky., and the Coal Grove, Ohio, High School before going to Martins Ferry.

Man's Passion For Sausages Nets Sentence

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vernon Howard has a passion for sausages that just won't stop.

The 28-year-old Chicago man was sentenced Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge Ralph J. Bartlett on charges of breaking into the same apartment twice—and each time consuming some of the tenant's sausages. Bartlett heard the case without a jury.

Asst. Prosecutor Albert Giles said Howard was on probation for breaking into the apartment of Harlan Pelly when he broke into the same apartment again last July 28.

The latter went to Pelly's apartment where the deal was consumated for $5. The unsuspecting McElroy was watching the TV set, waiting for Howard to return with change from the sale, when police arrived.

Giles said Howard went to Chicago and was arrested eight months later when he returned to Columbus.

TV Networks Eye New Plan

Ex-Executive, Ceasar Ready Theater Setup

By CHARLES MERCER

First of all, the former NBC executive and Sid Ceasar have joined forces to work out a "new form of motion picture presentation for theaters" which will utilize the special talents of Ceasar, who bows off network television after his NBC-TV show this Saturday evening.

In addition, Weaver and Ceasar are going into the producing business in a firm headed by Ceasar. As an example, they have bought first rights for the movie, stage and television adaptations of the new novel by Sloan Wilson, author of "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit."

Beginning July 1, if all goes well Weaver's new organization will bring the award-winning children's program, "Ding Dong School," live from New York five days a week to stations in eight cities. In October it is planned to extend the program which has acquired a sponsor, to five other cities. Since NBC dropped "Ding Dong School" its conductor, Dr. Frances Horwich, says she has received letters from about 100,000 viewers protesting its loss.

Weaver also plans a five-a-week half hour live interview and feature program conducted by Mary Margaret McBride. Although no contract has been signed, Weaver is interested in placing a McBride program alongside "Ding Dong School." Miss McBride, who has a large following acquired from her many years in radio, recently quit her regular NBC Radio program.

The cities in which Weaver plans his first outlet, besides New York, are Chicago, Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cleveland, Cincinnati and St. Louis.

Revenge Killing

G. Sidney Klass, held.

Dr. Harold Trimble, killed.

POLICE in Oakland, Calif., arrested G. Sidney Klass, 53, in the revenge killing of Dr. Harold G. Trimble, nationally known chest specialist, who was shot to death on a street. A cab driver saw the shooting and, using his two-way radio, followed Klass' car and kept police informed of its whereabouts till they halted Klass 11 minutes after the killing. Klass said Dr. Trimble had raped his wife in 1954. Mrs. Klass committed suicide. Klass' threatened suit against the doctor was settled out of court for $30,000, said Dr. Trimble's attorney. (International)

Man's Passion For Sausages Nets Sentence

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vernon Howard has a passion for sausages that just won't stop.

His passion cost him 2-20 years in the Ohio Reformatory.

The 28-year-old Chicago man was sentenced Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge Ralph J. Bartlett on charges of breaking into the same apartment twice—and each time consuming some of the tenant's sausages. Bartlett heard the case without a jury.

Asst. Prosecutor Albert Giles said Howard was on probation for breaking into the apartment of Harlan Pelly when he broke into the same apartment again last July 28.

In the last break-in, Giles related, Howard went to a nearby tavern and tried to sell Pelly's television set to a patrolmen, Charles McElroy.

The latter went to Pelly's apartment where the deal was consumated for $5. The unsuspecting MccElroy was watching the TV set, waiting for Howard to return with change from the sale, when police arrived.

Giles said Howard went to Chicago and was arrested eight months later when he returned to Columbus.

Ashtabula Ministers Chide O'Neill on Bingo

ASHTABULA (AP)—The Ashtabula Ministerial Assn., which includes pastors of some 25 Protestant churches here, Tuesday sent a letter to Gov. C. William O'Neill a week ago voicing "disappointment with regard to the policies of the governor relating to bingo and law enforcement in Ashtabula County."

The Rev. Harold D. Shiflet, chairman of the clergymen's civic committee, said there were to his knowledge no bingo games operating in this city itself, but games existed elsewhere in the county and might move in.

Since 1934, the naval and merchant ships of all nations have used the International Code of Signals, which consists of 40 flags whose colored markings are visible up to five miles in daylight.

Benny Hooper Due To Walk a Little

MANORVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Benny Hooper expected to be back on his feet today for the first time since his rescue from the bottom of a well.

The 7-year-old boy was due to leave his bed briefly at Bayview General Hospital in nearby Mastic Beach. He probably will return to his home Friday or Saturday.

"I'm feeling better," Benny said Tuesday. "I want to go out and play."

Last Thursday the youngster tumbled into a 24-foot well dug by his father in the back yard of their home. He was trapped 23½ hours.

Baby-Beating Mother Sent to Reformatory

CANTON (AP)—Convicted of beating her seven-month-old son with a plastic milk bottle and a stick because he cried, Mrs. Geraldine Gamble, 23, was sentenced to a year in Marysville Reformatory and fined $300 and costs Tuesday by Juvenile Judge Paul Van Nostran.

Her husband, Freddie, 23, was sentenced to nine months in Stark County jail for refusing to stop the beatings. Both were freed on $1,500 bond, pending possible appeal.

New Idea Firm Offers Union Another Deal

CELINA (AP)—The New Idea Division of the Avco Manufacturing Co. is awaiting word today on its offer to end the strike by some 1,100 members of the United Steelworkers of America at the company plant in Coldwater.

The company offered to put its wage proposal into effect immediately if workers return.

H. W. Lacey, company director of industrial relations, said he sent the proposal to J. L. Davis, Steelworkers international representative, in Cincinnati.

Tuesday night, Davis said he had not received the message and declined comment.

Local 4839 struck April 16 when the old contract expired.

Lacey said if the union agrees to the proposal, workers "could return to their jobs immediately while the company and union continue to negotiate on all remaining strike issues.

Lacey said the company has offered wage rates ranging from $1.65 to $2.61 an hour. The union said it has been asking an increase of 12 cents an hour with an adjustment in seniority differentials. Wage scales range from $1.55 to $2.40 an hour.

The sewer, of 8-inch, 12-inch and 18-inch pipe, will extend 19,000 feet, much of it along Ohio 73 from Wilmington to the base. The contract also calls for pumps, flow meters, sewage shredder and electrical equipment. The bids will be opened about June 20.

French Plan For Suez Put Back on Shelf

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Suez Canal issue was back on the shelf today after an inconclusive Security Council debate touched off by France's call for new negotiations on Egypt's unilateral operation of the waterway.

The two-day discussion achieved only one concrete result — a request by Council President Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States that Egypt amplify her rules for running the canal.

Loutfi received quick support as usual from Russian Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev, who asserted Lodge's summary at the debate reflected the views of individual members and not the Council as a whole.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, who came to New York to press demands for new attempts at a canal settlement more to the West's liking, told the Council the debate had cleared up "important questions."

The French government announced last week it would ask the Council to "call upon Egypt to comply with the six principles" for a canal settlement that the Council okayed last October. Then Pineau refrained from proposing a resolution after Russia flatly endorsed the declaration Egypt made last month on her operation of the canal and the United States again said the Egyptian plan should be given a fair trial.

Durr's mother, Mrs. Grace Durr, 63, died early Sunday of head and other injuries. Dr. Herbert P. Lyle, coroner, held the injuries were inflicted by violent blows.

Detectives said they have found two persons who told them Durr admitted he struck his mother during a quarrel Saturday.

Class Night Held at WHS

Parents, Friends Attend Exercises

"We hope you will be proud of us," Sarah Core, president of the Washington C. H. High School Class of 1957 told the assembled parents and friends at Class Night exercises Tuesday night.

Miss Core expressed the gratitude of the class to the public, the teachers and the taxpayers who have made the past four high school years possible to the group.

"Everything that has been developed in our world, in order to thrive, must be passed on to others," she observed. That is why, she said, the 97 seniors have "struggled with the X's and Y's of algebra," through four long years.

"We are young," she pointed out, "we are ambitious; we are not weighted down by the knowledge of what we do not know."

* * *

MISS CORE'S address came as the highlight of the Class Night program, attended by several hundred parents and friends of the graduates. The exercises gave the seniors and their friends a chance to reminisce a little, and to enjoy themselves a bit, before they go on to the solemnity of graduation Thursday night.

Recalling the busy four-year history of the Class of 1957 Nancy Reno told the story of "a dream I had, after eating too much chocolate cake."

The dream involved "a journey I did take, with my guide, Pupil, to the land called education."

The traveler and her guide had many adventures— they "did battle with the giant algebra (carrying his sword, equations)". They "journeyed through the dark and dismal valley called geometry."

Nevertheless, after meeting all the tribulations of the road, Pupil and his charge finally reached their goal: education, and with it, graduation.

* *

A vocal trio composed of Sarah Core, Judith Preston and Nancy Reno, sang "Graduation Days." The whole class joined in the singing of the "Alma Mater."

Organ prelude and postlude were played by Paul Messerall, while Janis Gillen served as piano accompanist for the singers.

Soviet Raps Death Cases Involving U. S.

TOKYO (AP)—Moscow radio says the case of an American soldier accused of shooting a Japanese woman on a firing range is an example of "manslaughter taking place wherever there are U. S. military bases abroad.

The Japanese-language broadcast referred to Specialist 3c William S. Girard of Ottawa-LaSalle, Ill., center of a jurisdiction dispute between the United States and Japan.

The GI has been indicted by a Japanese court in the death of the woman on a firing range. She was struck with an empty rifle cartridge case propelled from a grenade launcher while she was scavenging for scrap metal.

U. S. Defense Secretary Wilson has ordered the Army not to surrender Girard to the Japanese pending a review of an Army-Japanese agreement for his trial in a Japanese court.

"In many countries voices of protest against American soldiers' outrages are arising," the Moscow broadcast declared. "Demands for withdrawing the Americans are increasing."

Bodies of three more shell scavengers were found Tuesday and today on a Japanese defense force firing range near Chitose. They were believed killed by explosions while trying to dismantle supposed dud shells.

Nocturnal Storms Drench Fayette Area

A steady parade of thunderstorms drenched the area beginning about 10 p. m., with the city getting 1.45 inches of precipitation, according to Coyt A. Stookey, official weather observer.

Many fields were covered with water Wednesday morning, and the forecast brought no good news to those farmers who have not finished their plowing or their corn planting. More thundershowers are in sight for Wednesday afternoon, Thursday and, possibly, Friday.

Child's Eye Is Cut In Fall at Home

Stephen Satterfield, 18 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Satterfield, 726 Columbus Ave., was treated Tuesday at Memorial Hospital for lacerations of his right eyelid and released. Mrs. Satterfield said he fell on a doll buggy and cut his eye Tuesday morning while playing in the house.

Fayette County's Per Capita Local Debt 2nd Lowest in Ohio

Fayette County has the second lowest per capita local government debt among all Ohio counties, according to 1956 figures prepared by State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

The Fayette County per capita debt is $37.83, just a step above Morgan County's $27.08. Lake County has the highest per capita debt in Ohio— $366.76.

Per capita debt is arrived at by dividing the 1950 population into the total school, city, village, county and township debt as shown on the records of county auditors.

With the rapid growth in some counties since the 1950 census, Rhodes pointed out that the seven-year-old population figures make the debt per person higher in these counties than it actually is. This is particularly true in metropolitan areas where the population increase has been the greatest.

* * *

HAMILTON COUNTY ranks second in per capita local debt with $325.98, and Erie County third with $316.49.

Close behind Fayette County is Noble with $38.56.

Soviet Raps Death Cases Involving U. S.

TOKYO (AP)—Moscow radio says the case of an American soldier accused of shooting a Japanese woman on a firing range is an example of "manslaughter taking place wherever there are U. S. military bases abroad.

The Japanese-language broadcast referred to Specialist 3c William S. Girard of Ottawa-LaSalle, Ill., center of a jurisdiction dispute between the United States and Japan.

The GI has been indicted by a Japanese court in the death of the woman on a firing range. She was struck with an empty rifle cartridge case propelled from a grenade launcher while she was scavenging for scrap metal.

U. S. Defense Secretary Wilson has ordered the Army not to surrender Girard to the Japanese pending a review of an Army-Japanese agreement for his trial in a Japanese court.

"In many countries voices of protest against American soldiers' outrages are arising," the Moscow broadcast declared. "Demands for withdrawing the Americans are increasing."

Bodies of three more shell scavengers were found Tuesday and today on a Japanese defense force firing range near Chitose. They were believed killed by explosions while trying to dismantle supposed dud shells.

Nocturnal Storms Drench Fayette Area

A steady parade of thunderstorms drenched the area beginning about 10 p. m., with the city getting 1.45 inches of precipitation, according to Coyt A. Stookey, official weather observer.

Many fields were covered with water Wednesday morning, and the forecast brought no good news to those farmers who have not finished their plowing or their corn planting. More thundershowers are in sight for Wednesday afternoon, Thursday and, possibly, Friday.

Child's Eye Is Cut In Fall at Home

Stephen Satterfield, 18 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Satterfield, 726 Columbus Ave., was treated Tuesday at Memorial Hospital for lacerations of his right eyelid and released. Mrs. Satterfield said he fell on a doll buggy and cut his eye Tuesday morning while playing in the house.

Fayette County's Per Capita Local Debt 2nd Lowest in Ohio

Fayette County has the second lowest per capita local government debt among all Ohio counties, according to 1956 figures prepared by State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

The Fayette County per capita debt is $37.83, just a step above Morgan County's $27.08. Lake County has the highest per capita debt in Ohio— $366.76.

Per capita debt is arrived at by dividing the 1950 population into the total school, city, village, county and township debt as shown on the records of county auditors.

With the rapid growth in some counties since the 1950 census, Rhodes pointed out that the seven-year-old population figures make the debt per person higher in these counties than it actually is. This is particularly true in metropolitan areas where the population increase has been the greatest.

* * *

HAMILTON COUNTY ranks second in per capita local debt with $325.98, and Erie County third with $316.49.

Close behind Fayette County is Noble with $38.56.
